Chairman Hooper Draws Up Program of Solution; "Strike Conduct" Men Reply to President

RAIL HEADS IN BIG CONFERENCE

Discussion Between Hooper and Leaders Result of President's Efforts

Slight Disorders Reported From Different Sections of the Southwest

Office Clerk Killed in Virginia When Shots Are Fired Into Crowd

CHICAGO, July 12. (By the Associated Press).—A program for solution of the railroad strikers' strike was drawn up today by Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the United States railroad labor board, after conferences with leaders of the strikers, and was submitted to representatives of the railway executives from four sections of the country, at noon today.

Chairman Hooper's program which is said to represent the minimum acceptable to the striking shopmen, is to be carried again to the strikers' leaders later today, with the comments and counter-proposals of the executives.

When Chairman Hooper left the labor board office for the meeting with the four executives, he said he was confident some plan of settlement could be reached quickly. He said he expected to call President Harding on the telephone with a report on the success of his conference with the railway presidents.

The conference of Chairman Hooper and the railway executives is said to be the direct result of a 10-minute telephone conversation late last night between President Harding and W. L. McMenamin, labor member of the railroad labor board. The promise of the executives to receive the strikers' proposals through Chairman Hooper is understood to have been communicated to Mr. McMenamin by the president.

WARNING RELATIVE TO USE OF PULMOTOR

The chief of police of Lowell and the chief of the fire department were today warned by Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred F. Smith to be extremely careful in the use of pulmotors in saving lives. The purpose of the safety commissioner is to prevent the explosion of these machines. The commissioner says, "Deputy Chief Sennott of the Boston fire department calls my attention to the fact that the oxygen cylinder forms a part of the pulmotor apparatus in use by fire and police departments in the saving of life, which cylinder is usually under pressure varying from 500 to 2000 pounds per square inch. 'Inasmuch as the explosive force of oxygen is not generally known, I suggest that instruction be issued to the men in fire and police departments having in charge pulmotors, never to use oil of any kind or kerosene or gasoline in connection therewith, and that the parts need cleaning, soap and water only should be used.'

MURPHY AND LEARY REINSTATED TO PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD

Spicy Public Hearing With Mayor Brown, Solicitor Tierney and Dennis J. Murphy as Speakers—Latter Brands One of Mayor's Removal Charges as "Assinine"—Council's Vote Is 12 to 2 for Reinstatement

Hon. Dennis J. Murphy and Fred G. Leary were reinstated as members of the board of public service last night by a vote of the city council at the conclusion of a hearing given them on the charges preferred by Mayor George H. Brown when he removed them from the board on June 28.

The council voted 12 to 2 that the charges had not been sustained and by the same vote reinstated the two men to their former positions. At the end of the meeting they were formally notified by City Clerk Stephen Flynn of the council's action and automatically resumed their old status.

Councillors Arthur B. Chadwick and Peter McMenamin cast the twin votes in opposition to reinstatement, while Councillor J. A. N. Chretien was absent from the meeting.

Hearing Waxing Warm The hearing came in the middle of a council session and while it did not last for long it was punctuated by a number of heated remarks.

Notified by City Clerk Stephen Flynn of the council's action and automatically resumed their old status. Councillors Arthur B. Chadwick and Peter McMenamin cast the twin votes in opposition to reinstatement, while Councillor J. A. N. Chretien was absent from the meeting.

Conference With Soviet Russia Breaks Down at The Hague

THE HAGUE, July 12. (By the Associated Press).—The conference with the representatives of Soviet Russia here broke down at 1 o'clock this afternoon without apparent hope of further meeting. Maxim Litvinoff, of the Russian delegation, said on leaving the conference chamber, that further meetings were unlikely, as the non-Russians insisted on the Russians making promises with regard to property compensation and giving guarantees which were impossible until the Russians knew what credits and loans they would be granted. M. Litvinoff added that the peace pact would hold for one month after the last meeting.

M. Litvinoff declared that Sir Philip Lloyd Greame, of England, M. Alphonse of France, and others of the non-Russian representatives had insisted upon beginning work where the Genoa conference began, and had made progress impossible by demanding replies from the Russians which they could not possibly make until the other powers told them what would be done financially toward Russian restoration.

We can say how long it will take to restore Russia until we know what

Former Superintendent Will Not Seek Hearing—Will Let Board Decide Status

Harry P. Doherty, whose accurate status in the city service in a mooted question, reported as usual at the office of the street department this morning.

"I'm being tossed around more or less," he said when asked what he plans to do now that the public service board has again assumed its former aspect as to personnel, but added, "I guess things will straighten out all right."

He will not seek a hearing, for he still contends that he is superior. Continued on Page Three

SUBPOENA TO BE ASKED FOR

Hayes Confers With Federal Attorney White Following Incident

State Supervisor Shouts "Good Morning" as He Withdraws From Room

BOSTON, July 12.—Prohibition Supervisor James P. Roberts, after charging in open court today that United States Commissioner Hayes had "disqualified himself" to sit in judgment on a liquor case, refused to testify and left the courtroom with his agents.

Commissioner Hayes, after a conference with Assistant Federal Attorney William J. White, Jr., said he would issue a subpoena for Roberts' attendance when the hearing was resumed tomorrow.

The case before the court was that of two sailors charged with possessing and transporting liquor. When the hearing was called, Supervisor Roberts said: "I am unable to go on with this hearing because this commissioner has disqualified himself. I ask that the case be transferred to another commissioner."

Commissioner Hayes said: "This man is here as a witness, nothing else. The moment he presents a case to the district attorney, his interest in it ceases, except as a witness."

"Good morning," shouted Roberts, and calling his agents, left the court without explaining his charge that the commissioner was disqualified.

STATE AID SUPERINTENDENT REPLIES TO HIS CRITICS

William A. Arnold Gives His Side of Story of Wounded Soldier Who Sought Aid—Says Ex-Service Men Did Not Hesitate to Take Jobs When Boston Policemen Went Out on Strike

William A. Arnold, superintendent of state aid, was at his office at city hall today, an equal after his run-in yesterday with Stephen C. Garrity, commander of Lowell post of the American Legion, when the latter claimed that assistance had been refused to a wounded veteran of the World War.

"As I have told you many times," said Mr. Arnold today, "the American Legion, through its present commander, has persistently interfered with the functions of this office."

"If you wish to hear the true story of yesterday's affair, I will say that on Monday, Ygnas Peredrea came to the office and we talked over the matter of aid. He did not state that he was wounded. He simply stated he was out of work. Under those conditions, it would seem that while there was work at the mills he should apply for it. Our law does not provide for strikes. He was told that if he did not get work before the 17th of the month to return and his case would be further investigated. He left without any antagonism. He does not speak very good English, but apparently understood what I said."

The next chapter in the story came when Garrity appeared and interrogated me as to the whys and wherefores of the case. Naturally I refused to be questioned by one without any authority to do so.

The fact that members of the Legion were present at the hearing was a disgrace. Continued on Page Three

NO CHANGE IN STRIKE SITUATION AT BILLERICA CAR SHOPS

Reported That Boston & Maine Men Retired on Pension Have Been Ordered to Report for Work or Sacrifice Pension and Pass Privileges—Engineers and Firemen on the Anxious Seat Unless the old men who were retired on pension some time ago by the Boston & Maine railroad report for work at once, they will lose their pass privileges and pension. This information is contained in notices sent out to all the men whose names appear on the pension roll of the company, and the statement is from strike headquarters.

Some time ago the road adopted a pension system by which men who have served the company in any capacity for a certain number of years are retired on pension. These men, most of whom are incapacitated, are also allowed pass privileges for themselves and members of their families on any part of the road, but it is understood that they are kept on the reserve force and can be called back to work in case of emergency.

A few days ago, so it was stated at strike headquarters, notices have been received by men whose names appear on the pension roll, ordering them to report at once and that if they did not comply with the orders, they would lose their pension and pass privileges. The notices, it is said, had not the slightest effect upon the men, and as far as the Billerica shops are concerned, not one man reported.

SUPT. WM. A. ARNOLD

NO CHANGE IN STRIKE SITUATION AT BILLERICA CAR SHOPS

Reported That Boston & Maine Men Retired on Pension Have Been Ordered to Report for Work or Sacrifice Pension and Pass Privileges—Engineers and Firemen on the Anxious Seat

It is said there are about a half dozen men on the pension roll of the company at Billerica. Three men, two of whom stated they were from Boston and the other from Fall River, were on their way to the Billerica car shops this morning, but were induced by the pickets to keep away from the plant. The company has a force of about 80 officers in the vicinity of the plant, some in uniform and others in plain clothes. Between 60 and 70 of them are regular railroad officers, while the others are supplied by the town at the expense of the company. The men keep a vigilant eye on all roads leading to the plant and do not let any one in on the grounds unless he can produce a pass containing his photograph.

Engineers and Firemen The engineers and firemen who are employed on the road in this part of the country are beginning to feel uneasy and it is said that they have sought permission from their international officers to join the strikers. The men do not feel that they should be compelled to operate locomotives that have been repaired by strike-breakers and also that they should

MR. PEERABOUT STARTS TO MOON; BUT MISSES IT

"LOOK," HE CRIED, CATCHING BUSKINS' ARM AND POINTING. "THERE'S THE STAR THAT COMET-LEGS RIDES."

Buskins, the funny little fairyman in the apple tree, looked at poor Mr. Peerabout, the Moon-Man, in surprise. Mr. Peerabout had fallen down from the Moon, you know, and landed in the top boughs.

When Buskins found out who the Moon-Man was he offered to take him up to the sky in his little elevator.

"Oh, thank you," said Mr. Peerabout gratefully. And he lost no time in climbing through the apple-branches to the funny little house, or elevator, or whatever it was.

Buskins pulled a handle and the little elevator began to move, slowly at first, then faster and faster, up through the sky.

They passed all sorts of odd places, but Buskins, was so interested in the Moon-Man's story, and the Moon-Man was so busy talking, that neither of them saw a thing!

Had they looked very hard they would have seen Nancy and Nick and the Weatherman riding a big green umbrella. But they never saw a sign of them.

And what do you think they did? They went right past the Moon—right past it—on up—past stars and planets and the Milky Way and Mars and Venus and everything.

All at once Mr. Peerabout looked around.

"Where are we?" he exclaimed.

Buskins stopped the elevator.

"Blest if I know," he said. "I guess we've gone too far. We'll have to go back. Here's Buster-Gust Land where the Weatherman lives."

But Mr. Peerabout's sharp eyes had spied something. He'd noticed the Weatherman's house with its big chimney, and tied to the chimney by a long rope was a star.

"Look," he cried, catching Buskins' arm and pointing. "There's the star that Comet-Leads rides. Do you s'pose he's here? He's the one that pushed me on the Moon. Let's stop!"

MOONSHINE INCREASES MENTAL DISORDERS

(Special to The Sun.)

BOSTON, July 12.—Moonshine whiskey and Jamaica ginger were responsible for a remarkable increase in mental disorders resulting in a rush for admissions to the Danvers state hospital for the treatment of mental diseases during the past year. Superintendent John B. MacDonald of the asylum, "hospital," as the authorities prefer to call it, states that of the total admissions 8.1 per cent. this year are classified under the alcoholic psychoses. First admission of alcoholics comprised 5.6 per cent. of the total first admission, as against 4.7 per cent. for the previous year. Total admission of alcoholics, including first admissions and re-admissions numbered 22 in 1920 and 53 in 1921.

Although moonshine and Jamaica ginger were responsible for most of the admissions from alcoholism, home brewed wine and beer figured in four or five cases. Practically all of these drinking patients stated to the hospital authorities that they have found no difficulty in procuring their booze in their home districts either by the glass or by the bottle. The "hospital" authorities complain that the best treatment possible because of the serious overcrowding at the institution. This overcrowding is "objectionable from a medical, a humanitarian and every other point of view."

WOMEN COMPLETE TAG DAY PLANS

President Mrs. Beale M. Robinson presided at a meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the Walker-Lingers post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which was held at Memorial building last evening. Final plans were made for the tag day which the post is to hold Aug. 5, and team captains were appointed. Each captain was instructed to choose a team to canvass his district. The following were appointed captains: Chairman, Mrs. Sarah McElride; Mrs. McElride, Mrs. Corinne Tetreault; Mrs. Catherine Frawley, Mrs. Tansy; Mrs. Mary McQuade, Mrs. Lilla Pearson; Mrs. Rose Coleman, Mrs. Maude Churchill; Mrs. Jennie Garry and Mrs. Beale Robinson. The headquarters of the drive will be at St. Anne's parish house, and Mrs. Edna Chaudier will act as checker. A meeting of all the drive workers will be held July 25, following the regular meeting.

Mrs. Beale Robinson and Mrs. Jennie Everett were elected as delegates to the national convention, which will be held in Seattle, Wash., from Aug. 15 to 19. Mrs. Ida Hart and Mrs. Sarah McElride were chosen alternates. A welfare and visiting committee was chosen as follows: Mrs. Lilla Pearson, Mrs. Tansy and Mrs. Corinne Tetreault.

There will be a public installation of the state officers of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars on next Friday night, July 29, 8 o'clock. These officers were elected at the recent state convention.

TAKE STEPS TO UNITE CANADIAN SCHOOLS

HALIFAX, N. S., July 12.—First steps toward federation of colleges of the Maritime Provinces of Canada and Newfoundland as proposed by the Carnegie Foundation, were taken at a meeting here of representatives of the various institutions. The suggestion of the foundation was that all existing moves to this city and become part of a great university modeled on the Oxford system.

At the meeting here committees were appointed to consider the details involved in the federation scheme. The following resolution was adopted: "That we consider that some form of confederation of existing higher institutions of learning in these Maritime Provinces is necessary for the proper progress of our people and we undertake to do all in our power to bring this about."

A conference has been called for Aug. 21 in this city at which representatives of the governments of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland will discuss the university project with the college heads.

WOULD CHARGE CITY FOR LOSS OF RENT

City Treasurer Fred H. Bourke has received a bill for $675 from Yervant Soukikian of 67 First street, who bases his claim on loss of rent and business since May 16, when he was notified by the city engineer that his property was about to be seized by the city. The man claims ownership of a store and 11 tenements at 61, 63, 65 and 67 First street. He uses the store and one tenement. Early in May, on receipt of notice from the city engineer, he ordered his property vacated, in anticipation of the seizure being made immediately. His estimate that he has lost 450 a week in rents for a period of nine weeks, and $225 in business in his store because of failure to keep his stock up to standard, since he expected to close at once.

He adds a warning that the matter will be placed in the hands of an attorney after July 20, if payment of the bill is not made by that time.

COUGHS AND COLDS NEVER BOTHER HIM

"Every year I have been troubled with coughs and colds," writes Mr. M. Gazdik, 1127 Hays Ave., Garrick, Pa. "I tried various cough medicines; none of them seemed to give me any relief, the cough would always run its spell. I secured a bottle of Bosak's Horke Vio and almost instantly felt better. I continued its use and the cold very rapidly disappeared. I think it is such a valuable medicine that every time I take a slight chill I take your Bosak's Horke Vio, and am no longer troubled with coughs and colds. It seemed to build up my entire system and protect it from attacks of this kind."

NOTED BOSTON ARTIST IS DEAD

BOSTON, July 12.—Frank H. Tompkins, one of Boston's distinguished artists, died in Peter Bent Brigham hospital early yesterday morning. He was 75 years old. Mr. Tompkins, returning from a southern trip on a steamship, last spring, caught a severe cold which he couldn't seem to get rid of. He went to the Peter Bent Brigham hospital two weeks ago with pneumonia and sank steadily.

Mr. Tompkins was chiefly distinguished for his portrait painting. He was a splendid draftsman and a painter of unusual strength.

Frank Tompkins was born in Hec- tor, N. Y., in 1847, and studied art in the Cincinnati School of Design and the Art Students' League in New York. Then he went to Munich and studied under Leoitz at the Royal Academy, taking several prizes. He opened a studio in Boston in 1887 and painted a portrait of Judge H. L. Hoar of Concord for Harvard college. He had a studio in Paris from 1893 to 1900 when he returned to Boston. He was a member of the Boston Art club and had an exhibition of his works there last winter which covered the whole period of his artistic life. His last work was a portrait of Rev. Horatio O. Ladd.

Mr. Tompkins never married. There always had been a rumor of an early romance. He lived at 51 Clarendon street.

"Taxpayers, Organize to Save Your Money!" Says Borah

BY HARRY D. HUNT
WASHINGTON, July 12.—Organization of "taxpayers' associations" in every village, township, city and county, through which the average citizen can make effective his demand for relief from mounting governmental taxes is suggested by Senator William E. Borah, republican, of Idaho.

"It is only by pressure from 'the folks back home,' Borah says, 'that relief will be secured. And in order to make the demands of constituents effective on congress, taxpayer must be organized.'

"Once organizations of taxpayers' not single individuals, begin demanding that their representatives here act to relieve their tax load instead of making it heavier, then and only then will they get results."

Borah's suggestion of taxpayers' organizations followed his recent attack on his party's program to put through a high tariff bill, a soldier bonus measure, a ship subsidy bill and other legislation which he maintains would add to the tax and cost-of-living burden of the average citizen.

Work Two Ways
"Taxpayers' associations," Borah declared, would be a distinct aid in two ways. They would enable men and women back home to band together in their demands for tax relief in a manner that would forestall action of their representatives in Washington.

"And they would also, through the increased discussion and study of tax and other governmental problems, give the people a better understanding of the matters at issue."

"It was a rather black picture I painted in my speech to the senate but every statement is supported by facts and figures."

"Constant increase of governmental expenditure has reached the point where it breeds revolution. Everywhere, men are denouncing and criticizing their government. The people's faith and patience are nearing exhaustion."

"As proposed as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way to take up the ship subsidy bill. That will provide a drain upon the treasury by a vicious system of tax exemption, in my judgment quite as much as if it voted bonds or obligations of the government."

"After that is to come the soldier's bonus bill—which will mean an extra burden of from $4,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000."

"If these measures stood alone, we might look upon them with less concern. But they are the expression of what seems to be a deep-rooted tendency."

"If all the money were appropriated which by bills has been suggested, or if all the debts were created which such proposed measures would entail, it would place a mortgage upon the brain and the energy of our people which a thousand years could not lift."

"There is already great discontent throughout this country. And when discontent is widespread it is never without justification."

"It is evident the burden government continue to impose upon the people is becoming unbearable. It is getting upon the nerves of the public."

"If the folks back home want to end this condition, the power to do it is within their grasp."

"Individually, they cannot move congress or the party leaders in charge of legislation."

"Collectively, they can. By organizing associations of taxpayers, by making their demands in mass instead of separately, congress can be made to heed. It is only through organization that anything is accomplished with congress. The reason one side is able to put its measures through is because it is organized while the opposition isn't."

"When the folks back home organize to stop exorbitant and unreasonable governmental expenditures, such expenditures will be stopped. Now is the time to act."

DIFFER ON DEATH
Doctors Advance Different Theories Regarding End of Mrs. Hotchkiss

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 12.—Some time today, Dr. W. E. Donaldson of Fairfield, medical examiner of that town, will give Coroner John J. Phelan his report on the death of Mrs. Jane Richmond Borden Hotchkiss, whose body was found floating in the waves on Fairfield beach Tuesday afternoon. He will give his opinion that Mrs. Hotchkiss met her death by accidental drowning.

Coroner Phelan yesterday said that he would probably accept Dr. Donaldson's finding. However, Dr. P. A. Christian of Fairfield, who was the first physician to examine Mrs. Hotchkiss' body, after a life guard drew it to the beach, says that he believes death was due to a powerful drug. "This appears to me," said Dr. Christian, "to be simply a difference of opinion between doctors. I do not wish to reflect upon Mrs. Hotchkiss' family, or Dr. Donaldson, but I am satisfied with my diagnosis and that it was a well planned suicide by poison and not a case of drowning."

Dr. Christian says that before the life guard drew her body ashore, she had been in the water 15 minutes. He said he was uncertain what drug had been taken by Mrs. Hotchkiss. This, he said, could only be determined by an autopsy. He had examined one of the white tablets found in Mrs. Hotchkiss' pocketbook which she left in the bathroom and it had no poisonous ingredients.

Members of the Hotchkiss family continue to believe that death followed sudden immersion in cold water. The Fairfield authorities have made no inquiry and intend to make none unless ordered by Coroner Phelan. Medical Examiner Garlick of Bridgeport will not make an autopsy unless he receives orders.

Dr. Donaldson and the coroner will probably have a conference when the former files his report.

PLAYGROUND COMMITTEE
Three committees have been formed from the instructors of the girls on the playgrounds to take charge of the different playground activities, as follows:

Girls' baseball league—Miss Muriel Leach, Greenhalge school playgrounds; Miss Agnes Dudley, Lakeview avenue; and Miss Nelda Cross, Varnum school. Those in charge of the "volley ball league" are: Miss Charlotte Green, North common; Miss Mary Deard, Moody street; and Miss Mary Kelley, Allen street. The captain ball league is in charge of Miss Helen Castles, South common; Miss Mildred Collety, Butler school; and Miss Lillian Moran, of Washington park playgrounds.

State Aid Superintendent Replies to Critics

tion resent that they were advised to accept work in a shop where there was labor trouble in the past. They may recall the police strike in Boston a few years ago, when ex-soldiers huddled over themselves, in order to take the places of the striking policemen. They were willing to be called "scabs" then, but they are not willing enough money in it. It is not the principal of the matter, but the financial remuneration that seems to count. "This office is without doubt the hardest office in the building to work in and obtain results. The deception that is practiced by some of the applicants would keep Pinkerton busy. But there are always a few intelligent ones, association with whom makes up for the unpleasantness."

"While we are on the subject I will quote to you from a letter received a few days ago from the commissioner of state aid in which he says:

"I am in receipt of your letter of July 6th, in which you ask advice as to what this office/thinks should be your attitude in the matter of relief for men who are out on strike. It is my opinion that the soldiers relief law did not aim to assist in throwing up their positions voluntarily and then ask for assistance from the tax-payers."

"Furthermore, if there is ready employment to be had, even though there is labor trouble, I am disposed to think that we cannot very well back him up in applying for soldiers' relief when there is work to be had."

Another Complaint

Another complaint against Supt. Arnold was received today by Commander Garrity when Louis E. Laflour, a World War veteran, alleged that he had been refused aid at that office.

According to the story told Mr. Garrity by Laflour, he went to the state aid office on the last Thursday in June, seeking assistance and was told he could secure "all kinds of work."

Laflour states that he has not worked for five months, is married, has one child, has no money and is behind in his rent payments. He showed a certificate signed by Dr. C. J. B. O'Brien, to the effect that his wife is not strong enough to do any kind of work.

School Janitors Meet

Continued

Much routine business was disposed of, after which the following nominations were presented: President, John F. Carr of Cambridge (unopposed); vice-president, Timothy F. Twomey, Worcester; John J. Madden, Boston; Charles L. Hamilton, Lynn; and William F. Prince, Haverhill; secretary, Terrence F. Casey, Lowell (unopposed); treasurer, Waldo H. Lesure, Lawrence (unopposed); auditors, John Barrett of Lowell, Wallace G. Tilton of New Bedford, and George Sharp of Fall River.

D. A. Dooley, of the state board of education, gave an instructive talk on state university courses as they apply to janitors. Supt. Kelly of the Ballard Oil Burning company, of Boston, spoke on oil as a fuel for schools.

The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock to allow the delegates to attend a outing at Willey Dale where a buffet lunch was served and sports of every description indulged in. A banquet will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The present officers of the association are as follows: President, John F. Carr, Cambridge; vice president, Charles L. Hamilton, Lynn; treasurer, Waldo H. Lesure, Lawrence; secretary, Terrence F. Casey, Lowell; executive committee, John F. Carr, Waldo H. Lesure, Terrence F. Casey, John Murrer and Thomas M. Keegan, the last named of Lowell.

not be requested to operate locomotives that are drawing carloads of strikebreakers. They are now awaiting an answer from International headquarters.

Strikers who reside in the town of Billerica held an enthusiastic meeting in Union hall in that town last evening. They were addressed by members of the executive board of the federated crafts and a system of picketing was arranged. Most of the picketing at the shops is being done by employees who reside in the town.

A strike week in its brief lifetime spins about 1000 yards of thread.

NEW YORK CENTRAL TO NOTE SUBMITTED ON MORATORIUM

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The New York Central railroad was authorized today to complete its control of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad by purchasing all of the outstanding preferred and common stock issues.

The New York Central owns 52 percent of the outstanding stock issues of the road which also is known as the Big Four and operates the property as a part of its own general system.

Holders of the preferred stock of the Big Four, the commission decision indicated, objected to the issuance of the order on the ground that the New York Central did not offer a high enough price for their holdings, but the commission ruled that it was concerned in nothing but the transportation phases and that a complete merging of the Big Four with the New York Central would be in the public interests.

Commissioner Eastman dissented from the majority opinion.

SHIPPING BETWEEN LOWELL AND BOSTON

At present the chamber of commerce is busy filing statistics that will show the amount of shipping that passes between Lowell and Boston. The figures will cover the traffic conducted by the railroads and the motor trucks. This is being done in order to have a correct estimate of the transportation, so that it can be given to the legislative committee when they convene for the purpose of co-ordinating the carrying facilities of this district.

Questionnaires are being sent to the owners and drivers of motor trucks here in Lowell and also to the mills and industries that do their own trucking. When these are returned to the chamber, they can form an estimate of the amount of carrying done between here and Boston. It is hoped that these figures will convince the committee that it is necessary to keep the roads from here to Boston in the best possible condition.

tendent of streets, that he has not been legally removed and that he stands ready and willing to carry on the department's work.

"I will do just what my board wants me to do," he added. "If they want me to stay, I'll stay and if they want me to get out, I'll get out. I do not much care one way or the other."

"I told the board in January that I felt able to carry on the work of the street department, in the role of superintendent, but if the members of the board felt that I was not handling the job well, to tell me to get out."

Mayor George H. Brown had very little to say today about the action of the council in reinstating Messrs. Murphy and Lester.

When asked what he would do if the board reinstated Mr. Doherty, the mayor replied that he might do something, but was not prepared to say just what.

The entire matter may result in a very large question of status before it is settled. If the board should believe with Mr. Doherty that he has been illegally removed, or, in fact, has not been removed at all, no reinstatement would be necessary.

The mayor, of course, contends that Mr. Doherty is not under civil service and therefore could be removed for a cause deemed sufficient, without presenting to him any reasons therefore. No reasons for his removal by the votes of Messrs. MacKenzie and Cloutier, temporary board members, have been given to him. Mr. Doherty believes he is under civil service and at least one member of the old and present board, Mr. Murphy, shares this belief.

The council's action last night automatically retired Collin H. MacKenzie and Joseph A. Cloutier to their former places in the city's service—Mr. Cloutier to again become the mayor's private secretary and Mr. MacKenzie to return to his job as custodian of the Memorial Auditorium. However, as the latter is not being paid by the city for his work there, he held two jobs temporarily. Mr. Cloutier resigned as secretary during his term of office as a public service board member.

As George Bowers is out of town and Mr. Murphy intends to take a brief vacation, there will not be a meeting of the public service board until some day next week.

German Representatives Present Document on Reparations Commission

PARIS, July 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The German representatives today submitted to the reparations commission a formal note requesting a moratorium on reparations payments for the remainder of the present year.

The note stated that the 32,000,000 gold marks due on Saturday were available if the commission insisted upon this payment, but recommended that it also be waived.

The German request did not specify an extension of the moratorium throughout the next two years, as had been forecast in some quarters, but urged the commission to consider Germany's condition and make public as soon as possible a complete plan for her relief.

The commission will hold a special meeting, probably this afternoon, to discuss the German note. The text of which will not be published until the commission has had time to consider it.

Materials Alleviated

The commission meantime has instructed the allied committee on guarantee to hasten its report, either sending it from Berlin as soon as possible, or returning to submit its findings to the commission here.

The reason for the request for delay on the July payment is that Germany is buying wheat to last until the October harvest. Wheat from the United States for this purpose, is now on the sea and is expected, and if the July payment were made, there would not be enough foreign money in the treasury to meet the wheat bill, it is claimed, so that the German mark would be further depreciated by new purchases of foreign currency or bills.

Herr Schroeder, German under-secretary for finance, will remain in Paris for the present. Dr. Fischer, chairman of the war debt commission, the other German representative here, will leave for Berlin tomorrow whether or not the reparations commission gives answer to today's note.

Hopes for Loan

Through opinions voiced by Dr. Fischer and Herr Schroeder, it seems evident that Germany has not yet abandoned hope of a foreign loan. They do not see how reparations payments are to be made in 1922 and 1923 unless there is a loan to stabilize the mark. Their attitude is that Germany will do anything the commission asks, but they place the responsibility upon the commission. If the July payment is made, they argue, then the mark will drop still further with possible accentuation of the economic and political conditions in Germany.

The two German representatives, said to the correspondent today that they thought the Rathenau assassination was a large factor in precipitating the present crisis, it reacted against the monarchists.

"We are not afraid of being assassinated and the republic is in no danger," they affirmed in substance. "The trouble in Germany is a sort of demoralization and desperation among classes once well-to-do."

36 LOTS SOLD AT AUCTION FOR TAXES

Thirty-six parcels of land were sold at auction for taxes this morning in the office of the city treasurer, the sale being conducted by Joseph Farrell, assistant treasurer. The majority of parcels sold brought less than $50 each. As no bids were received on 21 other parcels put up for sale, they were postponed until tomorrow.

Originally there were 194 parcels of land advertised for sale, but between the time of advertisement and the auction today, the number shrunk to 57, taxes on the others having been paid.

Second Operation on Judge Holmes

He will be taken to Bangor for arraignment tonight. The whiskey was said to have been brought from St. Stephen, N. B., across the St. Croix river from here.

tain interstate transportation and the carrying of the United States mails."

Peaceful settlement of controversies between shop craft employees and carriers "in accordance with law and due respect for the established agencies of such settlement are essential to the security and well-being of our people," the proclamation stated, and added that men who choose to work under the terms of the labor board's decision which led to the walkout, "have the same indisputable right to work that others have to decline to work."

Answer President
NEW YORK, July 12.—President Harding's proclamation on the rail strike, which resulted today in a public declaration by the "Big Four" committee of the eastern railroads that they would "continue on strike until a satisfactory settlement is reached, even if every mail train in the district is cancelled."

Clerk Killed
CREWE, Va., July 12.—Russell Wiggins, a Norfolk and Western yard office clerk, was killed and an unidentified man was wounded when someone shot into a crowd of picketing clerks at the station here, last night. All the Norfolk and Western clerks here walked out yesterday morning.

Settlement Near
CHICAGO, July 12.—(By the Associated Press.) Settlement of the rail strike seems possibly a step nearer today when it was disclosed that secret conferences have been held between Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board and leaders of the six striking shop crafts.

President Harding's intervention in the strike through his proclamation calling for protection of train passengers, was accepted as bearing much significance.

A telephone call from Washington for W. L. McMenamin, one of the three labor members of the board, was said by the Chicago Tribune to have come from the president.

Fresh disorders at scattered points, while troops patrolled former trouble centers, arrangements for a conference today by the big four train service brotherhoods, and an announcement by B. M. Jewell, head of the striking shop crafts, that conference were planned with representatives of 21 northwestern railroads were among other important developments in the rail strike.

Additional Injunctions
Additional injunctions restraining strikers from interfering with railway operations were granted to several roads. New appeals for troops were made to the governors of Mississippi, Tennessee and Texas, while Governor Boyle of Nevada, was asked by the Union Pacific for state intervention in the strike at Las Vegas.

Disorders occurred at Chicago, Milwaukee, Sayre, Pa., Orville, Ohio, Dennison, Tex., and at Roadhouse, Ills.

At Algiers, La., four negroes working in the shops of the Southern Pacific were fired upon by a crowd of whites, 13 of whom were arrested for violating the federal injunction. The prisoners denied they were strikers.

At Clinton, Ills., New Franklin and Slater, Mo., and Tarsone, Kan., where troops were on duty, remained comparatively quiet.

The situation at Bloomington, Ill., remained tense, with troops holding the yards and shops. Frequent shootings and the general hostile attitude of strikers and large crowds of sympathizers kept attention on the city and county authorities were attempting to re-establish civil government.

Engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors announced that they would refuse to enter the Alton yards at St. Louis, to take out of trains as long as machine guns bristled in the shops. They voted only to operate mail trains unless the trains were delivered to them outside the shop district during the encampment of the troops in the yards.

Big Four Meet

The meeting of the "Big Four" brotherhood chiefs was called for the purpose of discussing issues growing out of the shopmen's strike.

Among other developments of the last 24 hours was the announcement of D. W. Hill, president of the union way signification, that no strike would be called, and the failure of clerks, station employees and freight haulers on the Norfolk and Western to respond to an official authorization of a strike.

Many shopmen leaders expressed satisfaction over the success of the strike, while most of the roads were non-committal. The Santa Fe, Burlington and Missouri, Kansas & Texas announced that conditions were steadily improving on their lines. Santa Fe shopmen were reported by the road to be returning to work in considerable numbers.

Police at Boston drove pickets away from employment agencies, where men were accepted for railroad work.

Roseville, Calif., officials were investigating the dynamiting of one of the largest lumber tanks on the Southern Pacific system by a party of unknown men and an attack by strikers upon an employee of the Pacific Fruit Express.

Join Walkout
Two hundred maintenance of way employees on the Central railroad of New Jersey at Wilkesbarre, Pa., joined the walkout and 100 section men at Denigton, Ohio, went out on strike.

The Baltimore and Ohio, and the Erie sent some of their walking stock to outside shops for repairs.

Mr. Jewell, commenting on President Harding's proclamation said the way to end the strike was to call a conference of railroad executives and shop crafts leaders.

Members of the labor board expressed a tendency to yield much from the positions they took at the outset of the strike.

State Income Tax Receipts Are Large

BOSTON, July 12.—State income tax receipts this year have been larger than was anticipated, according to a statement made today by Henry F. Long, commissioner of corporations and taxation. He estimated that the new tax rates for the various cities and towns in the state would show an average increase of approximately 10 per cent over last year's figures. In certain municipalities where appropriations have been cut to a minimum, Mr. Long expressed the opinion that there would be no great increase in taxes.

MILL HAZARDS AND HOW TO AVOID THEM

Issued by the
Massachusetts Safety Council

BY H. L. REES, Safety Engineer
Federal Mutual Liability Ins. Co.
Horseplay is the name generally applied to fooling, rough-housing and any sort of by-play often found at gatherings of either or both sexes. Horseplay very often occurs among employees of various manufacturing and mercantile industries, and in many cases serious and lasting injuries have been suffered as a result. The time is often the noon hour, when the employees are enjoying a few minutes before again starting to work. In probably no case has the result of a possible injury been foreseen or anticipated and the whole affair usually starts from the excessive jollity of some fellow workman.

One of the most dangerous features is that the horseplay started during the relaxation period before beginning to work, is often carried into the work room and maintained during the few minutes that employees are starting up their machines and again getting adjusted to their work. It will be noted by many workers to know that horseplay under certain circumstances, may prevent a man from receiving his compensation when injured. Here is what a court has ruled, as cited in Volume 1, Negligence Compensation cases:

"It is not within the scope of employment of workmen, whether boys or men, to indulge in horseplay, and injury thereby sustained by a workman, even though he is not a party to the jangling, is not an injury by accident arising out of the course of or out of the employment."
With the workers in many of the textile plants, the hazard element of their particular machine becomes gradually forgotten and, as the mind wanders to outside interests, the instant is taken when the dangerous crops out every now and then. The good natured shove or another passed by. The catching hold of the swinging hand or the tossing of some small article to attract another's attention, while in itself of little consequence, often causes the one being joked to unconsciously reach out to prevent slipping or stumbling, with the most serious consequences for fingers and hands, which are liable to come in contact with rapidly moving gears, belts, shafting or the like.

Recently an operator in the spinning room of one of our nearby mills tossed some candy to a young girl operator in the same aisle. As the other reached in the air to catch it, her head slipped and down she went, striking her head on the base of the spinning frame, making a gash which took three stitches to close up. Surely the candy was not worth such a price.

Little did Jake Manning realize the seriousness of his "horseplay" when he threw the apple core across the machine shop recently. It was pay-day and everyone in the shop was feeling in the best of spirits. The lunch hour was just over and Jake had returned to his work, finishing an apple which had been part of his lunch. In a spirit of boyishness he threw the core at his particular friend, Tom, across the shop. Unfortunately the core hit a shafting and glancing to the left struck Fred Marshall in the face. Fred had started his machine recently to cutting some steel plates. As the apple core struck him he gave an involuntary movement with his hands and his right hand went under the descending jaw of the shear. There was a short, sharp cry of pain and one of the best employees of the shop had lost four fingers of his right hand.

CHILDREN HAD BIG DAY IN TEWKSBURY

Conducted to the grounds of the Oblate novitiate in Tewksbury yesterday, in more than 10 cars loaded for the occasion, 200 children from the French-American orphanage, in the care of Rev. Joseph Bolduc, O.M.I., pastor of St. John Baptist church, enjoyed their annual outing with a number of sport events and two appetizing meals as the principal feature.

Following is the list of those who went auto, each seating seven little passengers if necessary: Wamett Garage, 2; Mr. Benson, 2; Fred Lamoureux, Auburn Motors, Church street auto garage, Toddlerman-Maxwell, Lowell Buick Co., Pontiac Motor Co., H. C. Motor Co., White Motor Co., Mr. Williams, Lowell Motor Mart, Maurice Lambert, Mr. Hong, Little Motor company, Mayor George H. Brown, Supt. Connor, the police car, the Haynes car, the public service car, W. C. MacBrayne, John Hayes, Henry Watson, Mr. Laville, Mr. Doyle, J. H. Dolan, Arthur Ingalls, J. W. Achin, H. North, A. Vigeant, Mr. Farr, Victor Achin, T. Robitaille, Lowell Studebaker Co., Jos. Charnard, Mr. Ready, Mr. Bernier, Mr. Larock, Mr. Lord and Mr. Thomas.

Two truckloads of ice cream, tenses and eatables were contributed by local merchants, and more was promised if the "little folks" appetites proved grander than estimated.

STATE COMMANDER

Few Candidates Announce

Themselves for Head of American Legion

BOSTON, July 12.—Massachusetts Legionnaires, who were Johnny Haultights during the World war, are likely to be well pleased with the candidates thus far spread before them for the elections at the state convention of the legion, in New Bedford, Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2, and the national convention, at New Orleans, Oct. 15 to 21 inclusive.

Senior Vice Commander William H. Doyle of Malden is the first and only candidate who has thus far declared himself for state commander of the Legion for 1923. The general platform on which he has declared himself is "a square deal for the disabled veteran."

In His Opinion

Specifically that means working to see that the Sweet bill is carried out to the full extent of the law, which, in Mr. Doyle's opinion, is the principal preventive measure against country-wide economic unrest, which has been legislated in the last year.

Other planks in the platform are in behalf of employment for veterans, securing preference bills in the cases of private employers and of the civil service. His third plank is to make the Massachusetts department of the Legion the greatest and most powerful for good of any state in the nation.

The present senior vice commander has always been an ardent Legionnaire, some Union, friends say, at the expense of his own pocket. No enemy ever accused him of being a man of anything but single purpose, it is said.

In 1915 he was practically the first Legionnaire to protest against what he considered unfairness and inefficiency in the workings of the old Public Health Section on the Hill street, later merged into the many-headed, many-divided Veterans' Bureau.

As vice-chairman of the New England district rehabilitation committee of the Legion he has consistently fought and opposed what he believed to be injustice to disabled men on the part of the Veterans' Bureau. And he has been instrumental in achieving a great deal of consideration for the disabled veterans, as described from time to time in the newspaper this last spring.

In World War

In the World war Mr. Doyle, a graduate of the Massachusetts Nautical school in 1909 as a marine engineer, enrolled in the Naval Reserve in the spring of 1917. He was married, with two children, and not obliged to join. No special training was necessary, so Doyle immediately started in the engine room, bringing steamers from the Great Lakes and from Three Rivers, Que., to Boston and New York. He began as an ensign and was mustered out as an ensign. He says he'd have much preferred to be a Johnny Haultight throughout.

Mr. Doyle joined the Legion at its inception in 1918 and was one of the organizers of Malden Post, serving first as vice, then as acting commander. There were 67 members when he went in as vice commander, 887 when he ceased to be acting commander, and 1208 when he ceased to be permanent commander.

At the Springfield convention in 1920 he was elected second vice commander of the state department and at North Adams last September senior vice commander.

At North Adams a "dark horse" for state commander was A. Loring Swasey of Taunton, the yacht designer, and one of the few volunteers in the Naval Reserve who advanced to the dignity of a "three-striper" in the navy—commander.

His Mother Ill

Mr. Swasey could not be at the North Adams convention. He was concerned over the serious illness of his mother in Philadelphia, which subsequently turned out unfavorably.

He says he has an intention of being a candidate for state office at this year's New Bedford convention, but aspires to be selected one of the national vice commanders at the national convention in New Orleans.

Judging from the potency of Massachusetts in the elections at Kansas City last November, especially that of Lieutenant Commander Raymond O. Brackett of Marblehead as a vice commander, the chances of Commander Swasey seem rosy.

A probable candidate for state treasurer of the Legion is Capt. Single Weeks of Newton, son of the secretary of war. In other years he has been urged to run for the office, but always heretofore has said that his business, banking, would perhaps prevent his giving as much time as was necessary to Legion affairs.

Cigar Facts

Then and Now

Back in '63, in a small wooden house with only a few cigar-makers, we worked night and day to supply J. A. Cigars to "our boys in blue." During '17 and '18 it happened again; we were called upon to supply the gigantic demand made by our soldiers and sailors. This time found us installed in a modern fireproof plant with scores of skilled cigar-makers who were making more cigars in one day than we were able to make in one month in '63.

In neither of these crises did we lower the high standards that we set for J. A. 59 years ago. Today, as then, we make the same fragrant J. A. that brought solace and comfort to "our boys" back in '63.

Marconi's Floating Laboratory Wonder Ship of Radio

PAUL F. GODLEY STANDING BEFORE THE LOOP AERIAL IN MARCONI'S FLOATING RADIO LABORATORY.

BY PAUL F. GODLEY

America's Foremost Radio Authority

After several busy weeks studying America's radio problems, Senator Guglielmo Marconi, father of radio, soon will be nearing home aboard his floating radio laboratory, the yacht "Elettra."

It is a veritable wonder ship. In one of the largest cabins on the main deck there is mounted, on table, wall and special panel, almost every conceivable kind of modern radio equipment. There are radio transmitters, radio receivers, high speed recorders, selective devices for the reduction of atmospheric interference, radio direction finders, amplifiers, special transmitters for broadcasting and highly sensitive measuring instruments which are essential for the analysis of modern radio problems. These things and many more catch the eye as one stands in the room and glances around—awed and well-nigh bewildered.

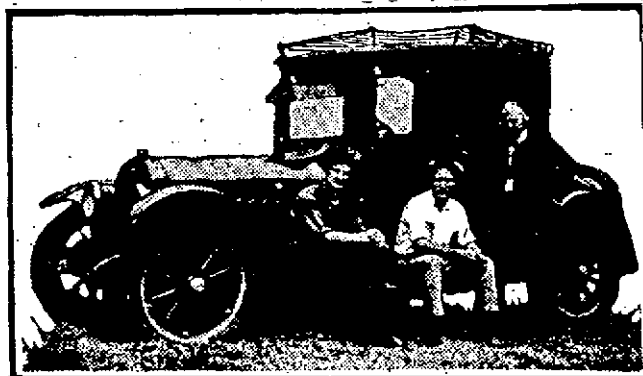

Projecting into the skylight stands a beautifully built loop or "frame" antenna. This serves as collector for the long wave signals which are recorded automatically on a special ticker device at speeds approaching 200 words a minute.

Underneath the tables are dynamos of various patterns, weight transformers, storage cells and all the appurtenances in the "prime mover" class. Here it is that the great inventor and his assistants pass many interesting and enlightening hours. Here it is that Marconi, the originator of it all, surveys the development of the art.

During Marconi's eighty-fifth visit to the United States, he saw more and heard more of the development of radio than ever before in his life.

America's contributions—particularly the more recent ones—and the remarkable popularization of radio surprised him. It was the finest tribute to his art that could be paid.

"Doc" Is Called By Radio

Patients in Government Springs hospital at Enid, Okla., needn't yell for "Doc" very long if Dr. T. B. Hinson is handling the case. Dr. Hinson may be out in the country when his services are needed quickly at the hospital. A nurse broadcasts by radio and the instrument in Hinson's car picks up the call. Dr. Hinson is shown standing alongside his radio-equipped car.

TWO GREAT STRIKES

This country is face to face at the present time with two very serious strikes; first, the coal strike, in which all the union miners have been idle for some months; and, second, the strike of the railroad shop workers, which is liable to spread at any time to alarming proportions.

President Harding has given out a plan for the arbitration of the coal strike and it is expected that it will be accepted, for the reason that neither side can safely resist an offer made by the president in the interest of the country at large and for the benefit of all the people. It will be remembered that the mine operators had signed a compact with the miners to hold a conference for the adoption of a new scale of wages before the expiration of the agreement made during the war. Under the pretext that such a conference would leave them liable for prosecution under the anti-trust law, they refused to enter into any such conference with the miners and the strike resulted. Already they stand in a bad light before the country. The president's offer is for arbitration by a board consisting of three representing the miners, three the operators, and five appointed by the president. The miners under the proposed plan are to return to work under the old scale of wages and if the arbitration board does not report a new arrangement acceptable to both sides by August 10, then the old scale of wages will continue, the miners to remain at work until March 1, 1923. It is understood that the operators do not like the arrangement, but their likes or dislikes should now be a matter of indifference to the government. The interests of the people are involved and the general public has already suffered too much imposition from the selfish policies of the mine operators.

In regard to the railroad strike, President Harding has announced that the federal government will maintain the service and the transportation of mail throughout the country. That will be a huge undertaking in case the strike should spread; but the government cannot stand idly by and see the interests of the country and the people imperiled by the paralysis of the chief system of transportation.

In reference to the merits of the case, it is admitted that the Railroad Labor board made a serious blunder in its last decision fixing the wages of the shop workers. It is generally conceded that this decision was based upon the reported financial exigencies of the roads. The decision is defended by a comparison with a rate of wage prevailing in 1917, which was not a normal year. In that year the rate of wages had not risen to a level that would meet the increased cost of living. For this reason and because the new scale of wages would not afford comfortable living conditions under the present cost of living, it is criticized as unfair and hence the shop workers are said to have a just grievance. It is quite likely that the government will soon take a hand in the railroad strike also with a view to reaching a settlement and preventing any further spread of the railroad trouble. This will be a much more difficult task than the settlement of the miners' strike because of the greater number of crafts employed and the various complexities entering into the cost of labor and materials. The government, however, has the resources to handle the situation and it should not lose any further time in grappling with it so that the whole trouble may be settled before it assumes a more serious aspect.

FACTORY SAVING SYSTEM

From Worcester a movement is spreading to the factories of the state which has for its object the adoption of a systematic plan of saving by which a stated sum fixed by each employee accepting the plan would be deposited to his or her credit and in a bank selected by the depositor. This scheme encourages thrift and makes easy the saving of money by small installments.

It is alleged in support of the movement that the employees where the system is in force are actually surprised by the rapid growth of their savings even when the amount deposited weekly is so small that they do not miss it. A great many people have a habit of carrying their loose change in their pockets and spending it as occasion requires without keeping any account of their expenses. But under the Worcester plan, every member keeps a close watch upon his expenditures in order to see how much he can save in a week without pinching too much. Thus his bank account grows much more rapidly than he expects, and with interest accumulating from year to year it forms a valuable nucleus for protection against sickness or death. In case of the younger members, many of them even in a short time can lay up a sufficient sum to purchase a house lot or to make the first payment on a house. Thus it will prove a great help to the operatives in acquiring homes of their own and getting rid of paying rent.

This movement is conducted by the Association for the Promotion and Protection of Savings, which sends its organizers to explain the scheme to the employees of any factory wishing to adopt it. The company keeps the accounts and makes the deposits, each depositor holding his bank book and, of course, as already stated, selecting his bank. The cost of the service is very small as compared with the value and the work it entails. The plan encourages regular and systematic saving, and results in a better feeling between employer and employee for the reason that the thrifty employee who is able to save even a little is usually contented and satisfied. This system does not in any degree deprive the employee of his freedom to change his employment, as the new plan, as the group put it, is time he may so decide, withdrawing his money on deposit if he so desires. The agents of the association actually astonish some of the workers in various factories by showing how much a man can save if he tries, even while earning small wages. Thus the spirit of thrift is diffused and when the benefits of this system are realized they are eagerly sought by the wage earners as an aid in building up their scanty resources so as to be available for use in emergency or even for investment as future needs may dictate.

GERMANY WANTS TIME

That the German mark has actually collapsed as a medium of exchange of any recognizable value, is the dread reality of the hour in Europe. In the face of what seems certain financial disaster, Germany pleads for a moratorium, but still France holds to the belief that all these pleadings for more time by Germany is but a pretense intended to secure concessions. The other allied powers do not agree with France on this point and they further assert that should Germany become bankrupt, that fact alone would ruin all Europe. The situation is, therefore, regarded as serious except by France, which seems incapable of conceiving of any honest move on the part of Germany. The London financiers are endeavoring to head off the approaching crash and are considering the German demand for a moratorium on the reparation account covering payments for the remainder of this year and the whole of next year.

To that France will not agree, so that a split is quite probable among the allies, on this point. Meantime there is a movement on foot in Germany in favor of monarchy, which may try to seize the reins of government in case the present cabinet falls. Thus the outlook for Germany is not encouraging and her fate will involve the whole of Europe.

TO ARBITRATE DISPUTE

Much satisfaction is being expressed at Washington over what seems to be the prospective solution of the old trouble between Chile and Peru, which is of forty years' standing. It is known as the Tacna-Arica question. These two states had been at war and it was decided in 1884 that the ownership of two disputed provinces should be decided by a plebiscite in 1904. The plebiscite for various reasons was not held. The years passed and Chile was accused of deporting the citizens of Peru and putting Chileans in their place so that the plebiscite might result in her favor. This contention prevented the plebiscite being held and now the two republics have agreed that the whole question shall be arbitrated by Secretary Hughes of the United States. The settlement of this question will be a great step for the promotion of international peace in South America.

IMPORTANT LEGAL POINT

If it should turn out that under the law for the enforcement of the 18th amendment, as now alleged, the officers have no legal authority to destroy stills and other paraphernalia used in the violation of the law, the question will arise as to what course will be followed by the defendants whose home distilleries were rudely smashed without warrant of law. The point raised by ex-assistant United States district attorney is regarded as the most important brought before United States Commissioner Fayson since the enforcement began. The rule was that officers smashed the stills on sight, but now the point goes to the United States courts for decision. The result will be watched with interest.

MORAL TENDENCY NOTED

Box fiction, of the kind that skates on thin ice, is steadily losing its popularity. Magazines that "play up" sex and their circulation slipping away. Not with lightning speed, of course, but fast enough to show a decided national tendency.

The same tendency is noted in the movie theatres, some of which have been disposed to exploit suggestive productions. That is a good sign. It indicates that the people are thinking cleaner thoughts and that the prevailing conditions have turned their minds to the spiritual things of life.

If the publishers, the theatre managers and all others concerned, will use their influence against the salacious, then the movement here noted will be given permanence.

Painting or polishing apples, painting watermelons, saucages and other articles of food for the purpose of making them more attractive, is on a par with putting a layer of fresh strawberries on top of a box that has begun to decay. All this is but a species of deception and is on a par with the dilution or adulteration of milk and should be so treated in the courts.

The fact that the court denied an injunction against payment for three motor vehicles purchased by the mayors does not prove that the purchases were legal but merely that the case was not conducted in compliance with the statutes. If the defendant had directed the proceedings to secure the decision given, he could not have done it more successfully.

The present trouble with the German marks appears to be that the mark is not worth the paper on which it is printed and its distribution, therefore, must entail a waste of time, money and energy.

The reinstatement of Messrs. Murphy and Leary to the Public Service board will not destroy the value of the political strategy of their removal for campaign purposes, when His Honor

Today's word is esoteric. It's pronounced as o-ter ik, with the accent on the third syllable. Both o's and the i are short; the o is as the o in day. ## An Old Name for It

Lady Astor understands the American reporters probably better than any other recent visitor, but on at least one occasion she displayed gross ignorance. This was when someone approached her with a photograph and wanted her to autograph it. Turning to a group of interviewers, Lady Astor asked: "Can any of you lend me a stylus? No one could. "That's strange," she remarked. "I thought all reporters carried styluses." But perhaps Lady Astor was only joking.—New York Evening Post.

Clever Minister

An instance of monetary success in the collection has been noted since the minister published the following solicitation in the parish magazine. "I am a nickel. I am too small to buy a loaf of bread; I am too small to buy one-half pound of chocolate; I'm too small to buy a ticket for a good motion picture. I am also too small to buy a box of undetectable rouge. I am even too small to buy one package of soap or eight Noverthons. Some people seem to think I'm some money when I come to church."

An examiner was putting a young medical student through his paces. "Supposing," he began, "there was a gunpowder explosion and a man was blown into the air. You as the nearest doctor, being called in, what would you do?" "Wait for him to come down," was the prompt reply. The examiner snorted angrily and then barked: "If I pulled my foot and gave you a kick, what would you do?" He brought into play with a steady light in his eyes the young man replied: "The flexible and extensive muscles of my right arm."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Tells How He Trains Children to Manage Millions

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR.

INTIMATE INTERVIEW WITH JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR.

Every parent and every child will be interested in the intimate authorized interview with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., multimillionaire and heir to the world's greatest fortune, which The Sun has obtained through Mr. A. Service. Rockefeller tells frankly how he is training his children to master millions, instead of letting millions master them. Whatever judgments you may have, your children, whatever your plans for them may be, you will find food for thought and discussion in Rockefeller's theories and experiences.—Editor.

By EDWARD M. THIERRY
(Copyright, 1922, by N.E.A. Service. All rights reserved. Reproduction prohibited anywhere in the world.)

NEW YORK, July 12.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., regards bringing up his children as one of his most engaging and important tasks.

"I regret the passing of the old-fashioned woodpile," he says. "I have failed to find a modern equivalent of the woodpile of my father's boyhood."

Thus began the first interview Mr. Rockefeller has ever given on this human subject. He discussed for N.E.A. Service his ideas on family finance and the problem of children. He did not pretend to be telling what other people should do with their children; he simply agreed, at my request, to discuss why he should do it. He felt he was duty-bound to put into effect in training his own children.

"Wealth," he said, "hurts children when they get too much of it. Just because a man can afford to hire people to wait on his children is no reason why he should do it. He should be taught to be helped to form the habit of doing things for themselves—things that need to be done—whether they like to do them or not. I think many modern children are not developing the will power and self-mastery that are essential in the solution of life's problems."

"That's what I mean about the woodpile. My father had to chop wood and do the milking. He probably didn't like doing the chores any better than most boys, but he acquired the habit of doing things. It didn't like to do his work was trained, and it helped him cope with other difficulties."

Mr. Rockefeller has six children, five of them boys. In age they are from six to 18. They are being taught thrift and the value of money.

"Everybody knows that one of the things which is wrong with the world is extravagance," he says. "Extravagance hurts character. It is a man's duty to civilization to be thrifty. Whether a man can afford lavish spending isn't the point; it is wrong not to spend wisely whatever is spent, whether a man can spare the money or not."

Families and individuals—children, too—should keep accounts of the money they receive and spend, says Mr. Rockefeller. He told me his father always kept account of his personal expenditures until he was past 60. And he himself did so until a few years ago. Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., is 48.

"At seven or eight my children each received an allowance of 30 cents a week," he explained. "The understanding was that if they were to save and to give, as well as to spend, 10 cents was to be saved, 10 was for the church and Sunday school—for benevolence—and 10 for spending. I explained the importance of keeping accounts. At the end of the week I audited the accounts. A few years later they were getting a dollar a week, and to teach accuracy in keeping accounts rewards and demerits were given. If the account book was correct the child got 1.05 the following week, 1.10 the next and so on; if incorrect, only 95 cents, then 90 and 85."

These allowances never exceed a dollar or two dollars a week at the most, until the age of 15. By then, Mr. Rockefeller considers a child that has been properly trained ought to be able to handle his own finances. So the allowance is increased to cover all expenses outside of keep, education and medical service. It includes clothes, fares, if traveling alone, entertainment, candy, notes, and the like.

"I believe," Mr. Rockefeller said, "that children should know what to spend, how to spend, what things cost, whether a thing is worth buying—in short, the value of money."

"This, and keeping accounts, is important because of the principle underlying. It is of value to my children—to any child—to hold to the rigid fundamental principle of economy."

Mr. Rockefeller smiled over an expenditure he tried.

"It was brought up to do things that needed to be done, whether I liked them or not," he said. "At seven years of age I began playing the violin, and I used to get five cents an hour for practicing. But that sort of thing doesn't work these days—or at least the standards are higher. Even with children, five cents an hour isn't an inducement any more."

"But I do pay wages for errands and chores. If a child honestly works, he earns such pay. It stimulates the desire to work. I used to get 16 cents an hour for sawing wood. But these days it's different. Down in the country we have wood hauled to the house. My boys and I load and unload it, and I pay them for the job. Yes, the scale is higher than 15 cents."

Schools do not teach thrift and habits of work, Mr. Rockefeller finds.

"Education used to mean cramming the mind," he said. "Education really is learning how to use the mind. The tendency with many children of today is to follow the easiest way, the line of least resistance. You see it reflected in studies, in social life, and in business."

"The modern theory of many people seems to be to let a child decide what he wants to do and then let him do it. Of course, we all do that. The things we like doing. But life cannot be lived wholly that way. How can a child later learn how to avoid the things he should not do? A disorderly mind is an untrained one."

Mr. Rockefeller hasn't much sympathy with parents who, having acquired means, say they hope their boys will never have to work as hard as they did.

"It is a false idea to change standards like that and go with the tide," he said.

"A boy should do the wholesome things his father had to do insofar as is possible. It will teach him what qualities made his father successful. I am sorry I did not have that sort of chance. I want my boys to start work at the bottom."

All women's shoes were made without heels prior to 1824.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem NOT SO VERY

Whenever you hear some one tell
That olden times were paradise,
He's under a romantic spell
And views the past with foggy eyes;
Don't let him pull that stuff, arise
And make this fact clear, as you should,
In spite of those who eulogize,
The Good Old Days were not so good!

Our ancestors were forced to dwell
Without the plumbing that we prize;
They didn't live so long or well
As we, and this you can't disguise—
Their little babies died like flies.
From causes no one understood.
And thus the thinking man implies,
The Good Old Days were not so good!

She laced herself, the ancient belle,
Into a corset half her size,
And in a faint she often fell;
The modern flapper would despise
Such weakness, for today she vies
With man himself in hardihood—
I'd hate to have it otherwise.
The Good Old Days were not so good!

ENVOY

Recall the past? Well, I surmise
We wouldn't do it if we could;
For, stripped of bunk and rosy lies,
The Good Old Days were not so good.

$10,000 Lost on Mrs. Mallory

NEW YORK, July 12.—Franklin I. Mallory, stock broker, husband of Molla Mallory, who was defeated by Suzanne Lenglen at the Wimbledon tennis championships last week, admitted today he knew $10,000 had been offered at even money that his wife would defeat the French girl, but he was noncommittal on the report that he himself had lost that sum. He said he believed half of the money was finally placed.

Gould Marries for Second Time

NEW YORK, July 12.—George J. Gould was married in Paris about a week ago for the second time. Knowledge of the second marriage was made public through cablegrams to members of the Gould family. The bride was Mrs. Alice Sinclair. A sojourn in Scotland until fall, it is understood, will keep Mr. and Mrs. Gould abroad until November. Mrs. Mith Kingdon Gould, first wife of George J. Gould, died less than a year ago.

INVESTIGATE PATENTS

Grand Jury to Make Sweeping Inquiry Into Dye Patent Sales

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Investigation by the special federal grand jury of the sale of hundreds of German dye patents by the alien property custodian in 1915 to the Chemical Foundation, Inc., is expected to be carried on concurrently with other important cases already taken up by the grand jury, it was said today.

The dye patent case, which was opened with the appearance of Francis P. Garvan, custodian, when the sale was completed, and now president of the purchasing company, was declared authoritatively to be the first step in a sweeping inquiry into the entire history of the custodian's office since its inception.

The government's present program contemplates occupation of the grand jury through July and August with the "old hickory" aviation, and Chemical Foundation cases and then to proceed with the other alien property cases until the life of the present grand jury expires in October.

It was emphasized that it was entirely possible acts of the alien property custodian with reference to former enemy-owned property might have gone beyond the law without being necessarily criminal, but rather a mistaken judgment concerning authority and in the stress of war time conditions. Return of the property to the present custodian. It was said, would assure protection for American and German interests.

THINK PARLEY ON DEBT NEAR

British Newspapers Give Prominence to Plan for England's Payment

Daily Mail Says Mission Will Leave for United States Shortly

LONDON, July 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The question of funding the British war debt to the United States reported to be under consideration by the British government, is given prominence by the newspapers today.

Overtures for the funding of the debt were made by the United States some time ago, according to the Times, these being accompanied by an invitation to a conference in Washington. The Daily Mail asserts that important communications are passing between the two governments, adding that a British mission will leave shortly for the United States to discuss the question, and while there, will also talk over the possibility of an international economic conference in Washington.

The Morning Post says: "Unquestionably this matter plays an important part in the whole problem of international indebtedness, and it is very clear that America is looking to Great Britain to give a strong lead to recognition of these external obligations."

The Post, however, ridicules the report that repayment of the debt to America in a lump sum in the near future is contemplated, adding: "It is understood that there is a liability of something like £2,000,000 due to Japan, while there is a large line of three-year British notes in America which will mature Nov. 1, amounting to about $50,000,000."

FOUR DROWNED IN THREE RIVERS LAKE

THREE RIVERS, Que., July 11.—Three young girls and one of their four boy companions were drowned in Lake St. Paul near Saguenay yesterday, and the three other boys in the party swam to shore after the boat, in which the seven were rowing had capsized. All were between 15 and 22 years old.

When the boat started leaking, the three girls jumped out, overturning it. Armand Houle and Elphège LeBlanc, both of Saguenay, and Arthur LeBlanc of St. Leonard, with the aid of the overturned boat, reached the shore.

Those drowned were Albe LeBlanc of Saguenay, Yvonne LeBlanc of St. Leonard, and a sister of St. Leonard, and Albe LeBlanc of St. Leonard.

BROKEN TROLLEY AND LIVE WIRE

Considerable excitement was caused on Lakeview avenue last night about 8.30 when the trolley broke and looped down over a Lakeview bound car. Officers Trudel and Aldrich, who were on the car, immediately placed a cord of men around the danger zone to keep the children from the live wire. The wire caused great flashes as it touched the rail in various places and excitement ran quite high.

Owing to the excitement a woman, whose name could not be learned, suffered a slight nervous shock but recovered after a short rest.

Traffic was held up on the out-bound line from the city for more than an hour while repairs were being made.

KEENE, N. H., July 12.—Bernard Morgan, arrested by the Morgan Mfg. Co. of Keene, was arrested yesterday on a fugitive warrant charging him with defrauding Frank G. Carey of Pittsburg, Mass., of $15,000. The warrant was issued in Providence, R. I. Morgan waived extradition and was released on $3000 bail for appearance in Providence district court tomorrow morning.

Carey came here with the officers and claimed to identify Morgan as George Steinbart, who, he says, sold him 12,000 shares of mining stock in Providence. The stock, according to the complainant, was worthless.

YOUNG GIRL DIES FROM FIRE BURNS

BOSTON, July 12.—Mary Hingston, 7 years old, of 38 Belmont st., Charlestown, died last night at the Daymarket Relief station from burns which she received yesterday afternoon when her dress caught fire from a bonfire in the street in front of her home.

The little girl was on her way to the store when she passed too near a bonfire kindled by some of her boy and girl playmates. Her clothes flared up and when neighbors, attracted by her screams, reached her and extinguished the fire, she was already terribly burned. She was rushed to the hospital by the police, but she could not be saved.

COURT LENIENT TO ROBBER OF BLIND

NEW YORK, July 12.—William H. Copeland, 76, convicted recently of robbing his blind friend, Miss Maria Wall, also 76, in order to get funds to finance his wedding, was given a moderate sentence by County Judge McMahon yesterday to enable him to raise funds to pay back the $3000 theft.

Copeland was given an opportunity to make good the loss when he was convicted, with the promise that his sentence would be suspended if he did so. He reported he had been unable to get the money, but still had hopes of raising it.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND
One of the truly high grade photographs of the year will be shown for the first time today at The Strand. It's the new Solznick special called "Reported Missing," starring Owen Moore. You must see it if you are to appreciate to the fullest. A most good laugh, thrills and entertaining romance is contained in it than any other picture shown here heretofore. "Just Outside the Door" with Edith Hallor, the perfect woman of the screen, starring, is the other big feature.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing the remainder of the week, Gareth Hughes in "Little Eva Ascends" and William Russell in "Desert Blossoms" will be featured. The former is a great comedy drama in which the star is shown in the role of a young man, of a burn-scarred actress, who poses him into service as "Little Eva" in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The situation when he refuses to pose as the little girl and goes really amusing. The Russell picture is one of those characteristic western stories that has action and vim all the way through.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Final performance will be given tonight at the Merrimack Square theatre, of the "North of the Border" starring Jack Holt and Bebe Daniels, together with the final showing of the "Greatest Truth," a great dramatic production with a specially selected cast.

Features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be Elaine Hammerstein in "Evidence," a gripping story of the stage and society, and "Too Much Wife," one of Wanda Hawley's best comedies. The International News and Bud Hamilton in "The Rainmaker" will complete the bill.

POISONED DOG KILLED
A dog, evidently suffering from poisoning caused quite a sensation on Lakeview avenue early last evening. As the helpless canine wandered about the street in a state of semi-exhaustion, cries of "mad dog" and "rabies" attracted a large crowd to the scene. Agent Charles Hutchinson of the Humane society was called, and upon examination it was found necessary to shoot the animal.

NAVAL OFFICIALS MUST DECIDE CASE

BOSTON, July 12.—Naval officials at Washington will be called upon to decide whether Private John D. Lawhorn, of the Marine Corps, said by a friend to have confessed to the murder of Ralph W. Brewster, the Winchester station agent, will be allowed to testify before a special session of the Middlesex county grand jury next Tuesday, Col. A. P. Marix, commander of Marines at the Charlestown navy yard, said today.

District Attorney Saltonstall of Middlesex county yesterday sent a communication to Col. Marix, informing him of the special sitting of the grand jury and offering to allow Lawhorn to testify. Col. Marix said today that he had not yet received the communication, but that the authorities at Washington would have to pass on the question.

Navy yard records show that Lawhorn was on guard duty at the yard at the time of the murder in Manchester. He has denied all knowledge of the crime.

Lawhorn's name was brought into the case by a acquaintance, now in jail, who told the police the marine had confessed to murdering Brewster last April.

RECOVERS BOTTLE; GETS QUARTER REWARD

BOSTON, July 12.—At last accounts, Leslie Nickerson of Roxbury, one of the crew of the Boston fishing schooner Dawn, who fished a bottle out of the water Monday morning 75 miles southeast of Highland Light which proved to be one of several lost about by the bureau of fisheries at Washington, was undecided as to how to expend the reward of 25 cents to which he is entitled for returning the enclosed card. The Dawn arrived at the Fish pier yesterday from the South channel grounds and Nickerson lost no time in spreading the news of his good fortune among his friends.

The card within the bottle contained a request that the finder fill in the location where found, the date and time, so that the department may determine the "fat" of the ocean currents in the vicinity of Cape Cod. It has been suggested that Nickerson split the reward equally between the members of the Dawn's crew, which numbers only 20, but he has not yet made up his mind.

Law Student--Fighter

BOB SAGE

By BILLY EVANS

Fighting and law do not seem to have much in common, yet Bob Sage of Detroit, Mich., is combining them to excellent advantage.

Bob Sage is a law student at the University of Detroit. He is a mighty good student. In two years he hopes to have his degree.

When not pouring over Blackstone, Bob Sage devotes his time to the ring. He aspires some day to be the middleweight champion of the world.

In Detroit and around the state of Michigan, Bob Sage is perhaps better known as Bob "Kaye" Sage, middleweight contender, the boy with the powerful punch.

Sage first attended University of Washington at Seattle. He then moved to Detroit and continued his studies at the University of Detroit.

Not being wealthy, Sage found it necessary to work his way through college. He always liked boxing. Any spare time he has is spent in the gymnasium.

Promoters Hear of Him

Then stories of Sage's boxing prowess reached the promoters. He was offered a chance to show in a preliminary.

At the time Sage had no thought of making up boxing as a career. The money offered, however, was more than he could make in a month doing odd jobs.

Sage won his first professional bout with a knockout and made a big hit. That convinced him that boxing would pay his way through college.

In 11 months of professional fighting he has taken part in 12 bouts, nine of which he has won over the knockout route. His most impressive triumph was a knockout of Pat Walsh, the well-known Cincinnati middleweight. The classic opponent he has so far met is Jackie Karp, A.B.F. champion. All the Detroit papers gave him the decision over Clarke.

Welcomes J. Wilson

Sage is a modest, clean-cut chap of 22 years, who takes the best of care of himself. He is a native confidence man and is convinced that he can hold his own with the best of them. He would welcome right now a match with Champion Johnny Wilson.

Sage has been tentatively matched to meet Mike Gibbons in a 15-round bout on Labor Day. If Sage is able to win over Gibbons, his reputation will have been made.

FRANKIE REAGAN PITCHES DEAR OLD BROADWAY INTO LIMELIGHT

Two Singles Was the Best the Centralville Wrecking Crew Could Do---Big Crowd Enjoys Pitching Exhibition---Snappy Twilight League Game on South Common

GAME TONIGHT

Highland Daylights vs. R. of C.

Frankie Reagan, 1922 phenom of the Twilight League, let the Centralville wrecking crew down with two singles on the 11th common last night, and as a result brought victory home to the lowly Broadways by a shutout game, the final score standing 5 to 0.

It was one of the best pitching feats ever performed by the old diamond and the immense throng was quick to recognize and applaud.

Sammy "Cool" the Centralville war horse, was the party of the second part, but the Broadways, as of old, seemed to have his number. They registered seven hits on his usually impregnable delivery, with all but the last single accounting for a run.

The Centralville scorers tried their best in the third and seventh. Purely in the third and seventh, Bradbury sent a sizzler in the same direction in the final stanza, with two out and all hope vanished, nearly.

The Broadways started with a rush. Keyes opened with a double to left center and after time had crowded out to Tyler at first, scored on Gibson's drive to center. Fredy taking second on the throw to the plate. Here came the holding feature of the game. Splaine sent a line drive alighting toward second, which McSorley grabbed and scooped on the bag, making an unassisted double play.

The Broadways scored four runs on four hits in the fourth. Gath opened with a single to right and Gibson followed suit. By way of variation, Splaine hit to Bradbury, who failed to find an opportunity for a putout in any direction. Then Lawrence, the new first baseman for the Broadways, drove the pellet to the center for a home run, a total of four runs.

Except for McSorley's double play, the game was lacking in interest as a fielding proposition. In the first inning Keyes robbed Bradbury of a hit by grabbing a hot liner he never should have touched. In the sixth, as Tyler swung hard at one of Reagan's fast ones, the ball struck his foot for four territory--the batter's box--and car-

LAST SECTION OF GOLFERS TEE OFF

SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB, Glencoe, Ill., July 12. (By the Associated Press.) The last of the three sections of the entrants in the national open golf tournament stepped up to the tees on the Skokie course today for their qualifying rounds to decide which 24 of the more than 300 would get into the finals tomorrow and Friday, along with the 61 who qualified Monday and yesterday.

the failure to keep track of the outgo, goes to "Doc" Gessler, who was a mighty cool ball player. Gessler played in both the American and National leagues. He was a college graduate and a mighty bright chap. It's just as easy for a collegian to pull a "home" as a sandlotter. It's just as easy for a collegian to pull a "home" as a sandlotter. It's just as easy for a collegian to pull a "home" as a sandlotter.

It was the first of the ninth, the bases were filled, one out and the home run was scored. Gessler evidently thought two men were out, for when he made a remarkable catch of a hard-hit fly ball, he believed the slide had been retired and started for the clubhouse at top speed.

Before his teammates could make him realize that only two were out, all three runners had scored on Gessler's mental laps.

BIG TIME RESUMES SCHEDULE TODAY

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 12.—Racing in the grand circuit is scheduled to be resumed at 1 o'clock this afternoon after a day's postponement due to a muddy track. As the result of the delay the program will be moved back one day which means that two will be necessary to occupy the entire week.

In addition to the regular card of four races today the 2:15 trot and 2:05 pace of Monday which were stopped by rain after one heat had been run off, are on the program.

Today's regular program consists of the 2:01 pace, the Tecumseh 2:12 trot, the Sherwood stake for three-year-old trotters and the 2:15 pace.

The greyhound is one of the oldest types of dogs.

RACE TIGHTENS IN AMERICAN

Yankees Only Half Game Behind League Leading St. Louis Browns

Tillie Walker Wrests Home Run Honors From Ken Williams

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Yankees were separated from the league-leading St. Louis club by only half a game today as a result of their 2-1 victory over the Browns in the first game of the series at the Polo grounds. It was a hurling duel between Joe Bush and Ernie Shocker with the St. Louis flinger having the edge. Two flukes, a home run by Ward which bounced off Williams' glove by a wild throw, however, gave the Yankees their winning margin.

Tillie Walker of the Athletics in the new American league home run leader, displacing Ken Williams of the Browns. A result of cracking out a circuit blow in each game of a double victory, the Mackmen scored over Detroit, 2 and 0-8.

Walker now has 21 homers and Williams 20. Incidentally, Kommer received credit for winning both games, the second time he has chalked up a double win in a day this season.

Haines held the Phillies to two hits, one a scratch, and St. Louis won its eighth straight, 3 to 0, but the fast-going Cardinals were unable to gain on the Giants who stopped the Chicago Cubs' winning streak, 4 to 0, with the aid of Jesse Barnes' airtight twirling.

Cincinnati ousted Brooklyn from the lead in the National league, beating the Dodgers, 4 to 0, while the Boston Braves checked their losing streak by trimming the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10 to 4.

Earl Shilleck won in the seventh drive in two runs and enabled Washington to beat Chicago, 3-2, while Guy Norton of Cleveland shut out the Red Sox, 2 to 0 with four hits.

TO MAKE TEST CASE OF BETTING

CHICAGO, July 12.—Revival of running races in Chicago, including the formerly famous American derby, hinges on the legal outcome of a race at historic Hawthorn today.

Today's race would have all the features of the old time Hawthorn, including the bookmakers. Just before the race, hot will be organized by a spectator and the amount recorded by the bookmaker, although no money will change hands.

The plan is to have the bookmaker arrested just after he records the time. The race is sponsored by the Illinois Jockey club, a new organization composed of prominent merchants and manufacturers and a law firm has been engaged to handle the bookmaker's case when it is called in court.

Racing was stopped in Chicago, organized by the new club said, because bets were accepted by bookmakers for races conducted on other tracks. They contend they will allow no foreign books and the decision will not apply.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, declared he would enforce the law.

C. M. A. C.'S DEFEAT LAWRENCE TEAM

Billy Marquette's C.M.A.C. team journeyed to Lawrence last evening and defeated the picked semi-pro team of that city by the score of 4 to 2. It was a close game all the way with the locals having the advantage in hitting and in fielding. On the tenth inning, the C.M.A.C. team of Lawrence as their opponent.

The regular C.M.A.C. lineup in the final three innings will again be in evidence. The team has a clean slate thus far this season and a large crowd is expected at Saturday's game.

BROWN AND TRAVERS IN FAST DRAW

(Special to The Sun)

PORTLAND, Me., July 12.—Johnny Brown of Newbury, B. I., fought a six-round battle here last night with Mickey Travers of New Haven, with honors even. Brown did most of the landing and outscored Travers in the majority of the rounds, but Travers' heavy punching enabled him to get a draw.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Centralville All-Stars would like to play the Maple A. A. one week from Sunday on the Lakeview Avenue grounds.

They also would like to hear from any other fast team in the city. Manager Fratus will accept all challenges.

ATTACHMENTS FILED

There were two attachments filed at the court house today. Fred Palm has an action of tort against K. Kondras for the sum of $2000. Thomas Novens filed an action of contract in the name of Demetrius Gintovras against Taxarkis Katsaros for $300.

Jack Dempsey Will "Warm Up" For Wills

The melee will be held in Pittsburgh, Harry's home town, about July 22, and will be 10 rounds, no decision.

Betting Greb Will Stay

The fans of the "Smoky City" are wild over the pugilistic plum to be offered for their digestion, and many are willing to go the limit with bets that Greb will still be in the ring at the end of the 10 rounds.

Jess Willard also is considered as a prospective opponent.

Big Jess, weighing 255 pounds, has gone into heavy training on the Pacific coast with the hope of turning Jack into a return match.

Meanwhile Harry Wills, is "Jess' waitin'."

HAS TAKEN FANCY TO AIR JOURNEYS

NEW YORK, July 12.—An airplane flight from Newport, R. I., to New York by Mrs. J. Normander Whitehouse yesterday, at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour, revealed today that wealthy New Yorkers have taken a fancy to flying. Mrs. Whitehouse, accompanied by her husband and Bertram De N. Cruger, made the flight in Vincent Astor's hydromonoplane. It took one hour and 20 minutes to cover the 125 miles from Newport harbor to Port Washington, on Long Island. Vincent Astor and Harold S. Vanderbilt and other society amateurs harbor their craft there. Vanderbilt frequently flies to Southampton to play golf. He flew to the New York to witness the final Yale-Harvard baseball game.

Standing Back Dive

AILEEN RIGGIN IN A STANDING BACK DIVE. THE SMALL DIAGRAM SHOWS HOW, AFTER SPRINGING OUT FROM THE BOARD, THE DIVE IS MADE STRAIGHT DOWNWARD.

By AILEEN RIGGIN

(Olympic Fancy Diving Champion)

To do the standing back dive, one must acquire something of the ability. Then swing into an upright position, hold it for an instant, and then spring out, bringing the hands smartly together.

Enter the water in a straight up and down position, with the fingers and toes pointed.

After you have become proficient in this, you are ready to go ahead.

Tomorrow—The back dive.

LIQUOR SEIZED OFF MASS. COAST

NEWBURYPORT, July 11.—Captain Burnham and the life-saving crew of the Plum Island station today captured the Ring's Island fishing power schooner Lorega, after a spectacular holdup on the ocean during which Burnham and his men were formed to draw their guns before compelling a surrender of the schooner's crew. Two hundred cases of whiskey and 60 cases of gin were found in the hold of the schooner, Capt. Burnham stated.

Capt. George Rich, of Salisbury and the crew of the schooner were arrested and locked up in the police station of this city.

A strange craft resembling a naval submarine is said to have transferred the cargo of liquor to the schooner early today, according to a member of the coast guard crew who witnessed the movements of the mystery ship which disappeared at sea.

WILL ORGANIZE PLAYGROUND LEAGUE

Organization of the annual playground league will take place at a meeting of all the team captains in a day or two. Each team will play three games a week and the schedule will be so arranged that each will have three home games in two weeks. This is the playgrounds' big league. After looking the boys over in regard to size, etc., it seems to the supervisors that the following locations warrant teams in this league: Alken street, Butler school, Greenhills school, Morey school, North common, South common, Shedd park and Washington park, making eight teams in all.

Another league, for inter-sectional games, will be formed of boys not over 12 years of age. The plan is to divide the playgrounds into four sections, the winner in each section to play other winners until the championship is established. The young men will not have so far to travel in this way. The groups are as follows:

- Group A—Varnum, Lakeview avenue, Greenhills.
- Group B—Alken, Moody, North common.
- Group C—Morey, Washington, South common.
- Group D—Moody, Butler, Fayette Shedd park.

JOHN DANGOMAS IS MISSING FROM HOME

John Dangomas, proprietor of the shoe shine parlor at the corner of Bridge and Paige streets has been missing from his home since last Sunday and his wife and two children are worrying over his sudden disappearance for fear that he has met with foul play.

Mr. Dangomas had dinner with his family at his home, 20 Second street, Sunday noon, and shortly after left the house to go for a walk. He did not return. When he left his home the young man had $115 in cash in his pocket. He is 26 years of age, five feet six inches in height and weighs about 155 pounds. He is smooth shaven, dark complexioned, has dark hair and at the time of his disappearance wore a gray suit and Panama hat. Any information concerning his whereabouts will be gratefully received by his wife at 20 Second street.

EVIDS OF BEETING
Churns bet Sidney Weinberg, London, a half-penny he couldn't get inside a milk can. He won. But he couldn't get out until hospital surgeons had "amputated" the can.

Charles Dickens wrote a Life of Christ for his children, and left definite instructions that it should never be published.

PROPOSALS

BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the buildings department, at City Hall on Wednesday July 12, 1922, at 2 p. m. o'clock for the following work:

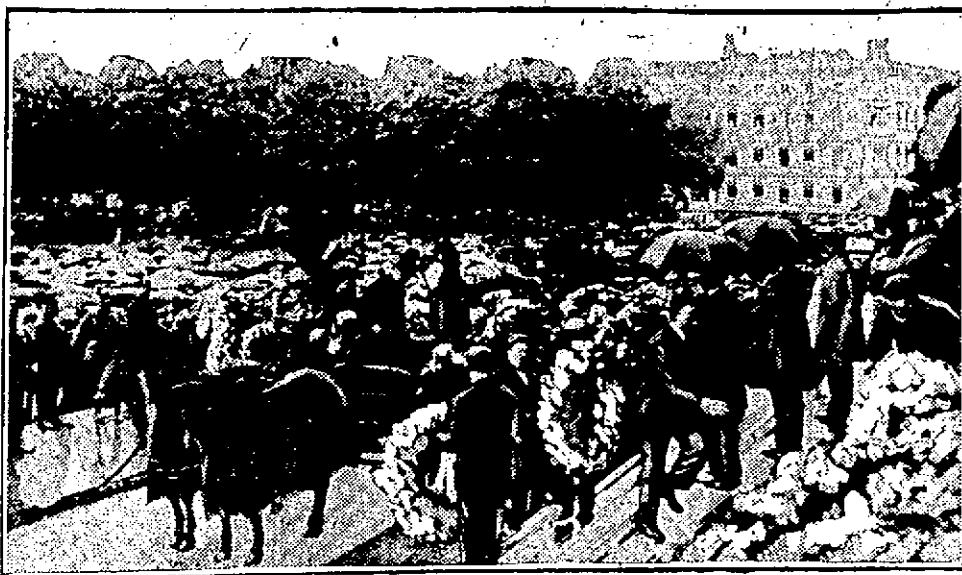

At Chelmsford Street Hospital. To furnish and install steam pump, receiving tank and hot water tank.

Specifications may be obtained at the office of the buildings department at City Hall.

A bond to the amount of 25 per cent. of the contract price will be required of the successful contractor as a guarantee that the contract will be completed in a manner satisfactory to the Inspector of Public Buildings. In lieu of a bond a certified check for the same amount will be accepted.

The Inspector of Public Buildings reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to accept the proposal which seems for the best interest of the City of Lowell.

Per Order,
FRANCIS A. CONNOR,
Inspector of Public Buildings.

THE FUNERAL OF RATHENAU

ELKS TO GO IN FOR ATHLETICS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 11.—A plan providing that each lodge of Elks in the country engage in athletic activities and acquire the necessary property for an athletic field was received enthusiastically yesterday by the thousands of delegates to the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge. Leading officers said the proposal, which was referred to the new govt. of the order committee, probably would be adopted.

An invitation was received from Mayor Curley of Boston to hold next year's reunion in that city. Decision in the matter will be reached today. It was said in administration circles that the invitation probably would be accepted.

In addition to the selection of J. Edgar Masters of Charleston, Penn., as grand exalted ruler, the Grand Lodge elected the following officers:

Grand esteemed leading knight, Fred A. Morris, Mexico, Mo.; grand esteemed loyal knight, Harry A. Tichner, Pasadena, Cal.; grand esteemed lecturing knight, Fred O. Nuetzel, Louisville, Ky.; grand secretary, Fred C. Robinson, Dubuque, Ia.; grand treasurer, P. J. Brennan, Denison, Tex.; grand liber, Clement Scott, Vancouver, Wash.; grand inner guard, Albert K. Hill, Spartanburg, S. C.; grand chaplain, Rev. Dr. John Dysart, Jamestown, N. Y.; grand trustee for a five-year term, Robert A. Scott, Clinton, Ind.; member of the grand forum for a five-year term, John J. Carlton, Flint, Mich.

Kellogg's SHREDED KRUMBLES

deliciously flavored
WHOLE-WHEAT

The Spirit of Old College Days!

It's a wonderful thing for women and men to "carry age" gracefully; to retain mental keenness through physical fitness! Compare such women and men with puny, faded examples of humanity! Did you ever consider that these rugged folks came by their health largely through childhood food—food that made red blood and bone and muscle! Health was built into their systems!

Don't let your children grow up puny, undersized weaklings through eating denatured, bleached-out foods! Protect these little folks with Kellogg's whole-wheat KRUMBLES—with the full, delicious whole-wheat flavor for the first time!

KRUMBLES will build strong bodies; KRUMBLES will make red blood and bone and muscle and rugged constitutions! Because KRUMBLES, with every atom of whole wheat, contain every food element that the human body needs!

KRUMBLES renew the strength of men and women who do the world's work! KRUMBLES provide food that sustains the aged as nothing else can! All grocers sell KRUMBLES.

The only whole-wheat food with a delicious flavor!

How to Increase Weight and Put on Solid Stay-There Flesh

What difference does it make to you how EVANS' TRIPLE PHOSPHATES puts good, solid, red-blooded, healthy flesh on your body as long as it does it and makes you feel 100% better at the same time?

Evans' Triple Phosphates is something new and something that really does what is claimed for it. Start to take it today with each meal, and in four days you'll know that you are growing more robust and feel stronger and more active. Continue with the treatment faithfully for 10 days more and note with satisfaction that your nerves are growing more responsive; that your ambition does not lag but is cheerfully obedient to your wishes; that a touch of color is appearing in your cheeks and that your occupation ceases to become a task and is a pleasure. Notice that never before in your whole life have you enjoyed living as you do today. Weigh yourself at the end of one month and let the scales tell the story.

Fred Howard and all good druggists have agreed to supply this run-down, under-developed persons with the understanding that if one month's treatment doesn't give most gratifying results, your money is waiting for you. But don't take it even though it accomplishes wonders in nervous digestive troubles and as a general nerve tonic, unless you really want to put on flesh and gain weight.—Adv.

Lawrence Man Held For Shooting

LAWRENCE, July 12.—Azis Husbany was held in $12,000 bonds in district court today after he had pleaded not guilty to charges of assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon. He is alleged to have shot Mitry Akel on a local street last night. Two shots were fired, the police say, the first going wild and hitting eight-year-old Italia Simone in the arm. Both the girl and the man are expected to recover. Husbany will be given a hearing July 21.

Chinese Cruiser Near Hong Kong

LONDON, July 12.—A Central News' despatch from Hong Kong today says the cruiser Wingfun, with Sun Yat Sen, deposed president of the South China government aboard, arrived off the British settlement there. During an interview, the despatch says, Sun expressed confidence that the future would bring victory and declared his present base was better than the former one, because it shortened communications with the city and enabled him to keep in touch with his expeditionary army, which was making good progress on its return to Canton.

Lieut. Col. Greig to Be Chief of Civilians' Training at Camp Devens

BOSTON, July 12.—Announcement was made yesterday at First Corps area headquarters that Lieut. Col. Alexander Greig, Jr., has been ordered from Fort Leavenworth, Kas., to Camp Devens, Mass., where he will be chief of training at the citizens' military training camp, which will be held there next month.

Lieut. Col. Greig is a citizen of Lowell and was for several years on duty as instructor of the high school cadets at the Lowell high school. Lieut. Col. Greig was also actively connected with the Lowell militia companies prior to his entry into regular army service. During the war he served with distinction in France with the mobile railroad gun, some of which were taken from battleships and manned by sailors. He enjoyed a brief furlough in Lowell after his return from France and now and then finds time to visit friends here. News of his transfer in charge of the citizens' military training camp will be gladly received by his friends in Lowell and it is hoped that he will have the opportunity of making frequent visits to this city.

U. S. SENATE FIGHT IS WAXING WARM

Humphrey O'Sullivan Will
Be Strong for Col. Gas-
ton's Nomination

Joe Walker Offers Encouragement for Democrats—
Other Candidates

Humphrey O'Sullivan will take an active interest in the candidacy of Col. William A. Gaston for the nomination for United States senator. When Mr. Gaston was a candidate for the nomination for governor, Mr. O'Sullivan was one of his staunch supporters. The present campaign will be conducted with more regard for a clear explanation of the issues involved and where-in Massachusetts and New England suffer through the action of Senator Lodge in promoting the fortunes of the republican party in the nation than his own state and the port of Boston. Col. Gaston will visit Lowell in a week or two.

Councillor Stearns a Candidate
Mr. Frank K. Stearns, councillor from ward 1, has announced his candidacy for the office of registrar of deeds, in the northern Middlesex district, now held by William C. Purcell. Mr. Stearns ran for the same office six years ago and has made up his mind to try it once more. He will take out his nomination papers in a few days. He served on the school committee, in the legislature and was chairman of the board of health. It is understood that Mr. Purcell will be a candidate for reelection.

For Representative
Richard J. Lyons is making an active canvass as a candidate for representative in the 14th district, including wards 4 and 5. He has declared himself as the friend of labor, a mill worker himself, and believes that there should be some means of compelling the mill owners to enter into conference with their employees on the question of fixing or changing wage scales.

Joe Walker's Statement
Hon. Joseph Walker, candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator, sends out a statement in which he offers encouragement to democratic women, including the business and professional women, I am getting a wonderful support all over the state. They are taking a laboring part in my fight.

Many business men, who are utterly disgusted with the old log-rolling political method of making tariff schedules, now on exhibition in the senate, and who believe that the result will be unjust, excessive and indefensible rates, have offered me their support. They believe that the delays and utter lack of leadership in the senate is checking business, causing unemployment and holding back prosperity.

This cost of government and the extravagant program of legislation now before the senate is a serious source of worry to many business men and to those who fear an increase in the cost of living. Many of these men have come to me and offered their support.

I am getting strong, active and organized support from the working men and farmers, who say to me that they will no longer stand for reactionary leadership.

Finally, I am told by strong partisan republicans, including a recent chairman of the republican state committee, that they do not believe that it is possible to elect an old guard republican in Massachusetts. They point to the fact that Mr. Weeks was defeated by Mr. Walsh, that Mr. Lodge was nearly defeated by Mr. Fitzgerald six years ago, even though Mr. Fitzgerald threw up his hands in the midst of the fight. These republicans frankly say that only a progressive, forward looking republican can hold the independent vote, so necessary to assure election. As a result of this, the republican cannot be elected, the real choice lies between another democratic senator and a forward looking republican senator.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT AT SHEDD PARK

An open doubles tennis tournament is planned by the park department for the Shedd park courts for the week end following Labor Day. There will be preliminary sets for the novices and a tournament will then be held for those who survive the elimination sets. There will be a contest also for the more seasoned players and they will pair up as they see fit.

The park department wants the sanction of the A.A.U. for this doubles tournament and they will appoint an entry committee who will regulate the pairing off of the contestants. The men in charge want it clearly understood that this is not a children's event but a tournament for the grownups.

COBURN EMPLOYEES ENJOY OUTING

Thirty-four employees of the C. B. Coburn Co. left Lowell this morning for Nahant, Mass., N. H., where the annual picnic will be held. Transportation was furnished by the company and luncheon was served in the beautiful grove at the grounds. Baseball and other games were played and the return will be made late in the evening.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Man Charged With Using
Dangerous Weapon Fined
$50—Other Cases

Charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, George Rotsekas of Noble's court, off Broadway was arraigned in district court this morning and his case occupied the greater part of the court session. The alleged offense occurred on July 4 at about 11 a. m., when one Francis Trainor was stabbed and taken to the hospital, from which he emerged this morning to appear for the prosecution. After hearing the evidence the defendant, although the judge asserted he did not believe him the aggressor, was fined $50 and appeared to superior court. The fine, according to the judge, was to serve as a warning against the use of edged weapons, knives particularly.

Francis Trainor, with a number of small plasters about his head and face, was the first witness for the prosecution. He said that he lives on South street, and has no occupation at present. He was standing near the corner of Willie street and Broadway, in front of Noble's court, the name of which he did not know. He alleged that a young fellow, whom he did not know by name, but who proved on being pointed out to be William McCredy, came running from the court and said he was stabbed. He went back in the court and saw "the Greek," as he termed Rotsekas, in the house. He said he could not remember seeing any woman in the court. He claimed that Rotsekas attacked him and stabbed him, after which he was taken from the alley and to the hospital. He showed his cuts to the judge. He said that McCredy was stabbed or cut over one of his eyes.

McCredy said that he and another, who was absent from the court room, had met the man and that he had said something which they understood to indicate moonshine. He was on his way home from the South common, they followed the man and he put down some bottles he was carrying on the steps of his back and struck him, and ran. He said that he and another, who was absent from the court room, had met the man and that he had said something which they understood to indicate moonshine. He was on his way home from the South common, they followed the man and he put down some bottles he was carrying on the steps of his back and struck him, and ran.

John McCuffrey, who gave his residence as 14 Dunley street, Pawtucket, said he was coming up the street when he saw McCredy coming out of a defense court building and saying that he had been stabbed. He went to the defense court building and saw McCredy, who was bleeding from his head and chest, and he helped him to get up. He said that he and another, who was absent from the court room, had met the man and that he had said something which they understood to indicate moonshine. He was on his way home from the South common, they followed the man and he put down some bottles he was carrying on the steps of his back and struck him, and ran.

The Defendant's Story
The defendant, who appeared for a more mutilated than Trainor, with a great bandage about his head and chest, said he was coming up the street when he saw McCredy coming out of a defense court building and saying that he had been stabbed. He went to the defense court building and saw McCredy, who was bleeding from his head and chest, and he helped him to get up. He said that he and another, who was absent from the court room, had met the man and that he had said something which they understood to indicate moonshine. He was on his way home from the South common, they followed the man and he put down some bottles he was carrying on the steps of his back and struck him, and ran.

On his return to the court room, he met two fellows as he entered the court, he said, and one of them asked him for the umbrella. He refused, according to his testimony, whereupon one of the fellows tried to take it away from him, and he was struck. He said he then went into the house and prepared for breakfast, when six or eight men entered the house and struck him. One, he claimed, struck him with his fist and another with a brick, and he charged them with the knife with which he was cutting beans. He also accused them of breaking glass in the door.

John McCuffrey, who gave his residence as 14 Dunley street, Pawtucket, said he was coming up the street when he saw McCredy coming out of a defense court building and saying that he had been stabbed. He went to the defense court building and saw McCredy, who was bleeding from his head and chest, and he helped him to get up. He said that he and another, who was absent from the court room, had met the man and that he had said something which they understood to indicate moonshine. He was on his way home from the South common, they followed the man and he put down some bottles he was carrying on the steps of his back and struck him, and ran.

DEATHS

McLoughlin—Mrs. Mary E. (Draper) McLoughlin, wife of James T. McLoughlin, the well known foreman in the street cleaning department, died yesterday morning at her home, 151 Broadway, after a brief illness. She was born in this city, the daughter of the late Thomas and Margaret (Walsh) Draper, and besides her husband she leaves two brothers, Henry and William D. Draper, two nephews and five nieces.

Coburn—James M. Coburn, formerly of this city and resident of 1830 1/2 Kansas City, Mo., died yesterday morning at his home, 151 Broadway, after a brief illness. He was born in Dracut, Jan. 26, 1850, being the youngest son of George W. and Mary (Hamford) Coburn. After attending school in Dracut and Lowell, he entered the employ of the Railroad bank, whence he went to Lawrence as cashier of the Pemberton bank. About 1880, Mr. Coburn left Lawrence for Kansas City, where he engaged in real estate and ranching interests. For some years he managed properties in Texas and New Mexico. In the past decade his principal interest had been in apple growing in Arkansas. Mr. Coburn is survived by his wife and four children, of whom Mrs. Ira Colby of Claremont, N. H., is the only one resident in New England; by a brother, Frank Coburn, of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Grace M. Wilmore of Andover.

Hennessey—John H. Hennessey, a well known resident of this city, died yesterday at his home, 62 Twelfth street. He is survived by a son, Andrew J. Hennessey, of Lowell, and a daughter, Mrs. John Tobin and Mrs. George W. Marshall.

Bay—Mrs. Emma Bay, wife of Birge C. Bay, a resident of Pelham, N. H., died yesterday at her home in Pelham at the age of 60 years and 10 months.

Whitely—Miss Ma J. Whitely, a resident of Lowell all her life, died this morning at her home, 1721 Bridge street, Dracut, at the age of 55 years, 3 months and 14 days. She was the daughter of Samuel J. Whitely, Charles F. and Harry W. of Dracut; two nieces and a nephew. She was a member of St. Anne's church. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker W. Herbert Blake.

Doolley—Mrs. Mary A. Doolley, a well known resident of this city, died today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. McNamara, 816 Lakeview avenue. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Richard Doolley and George Doolley, both of the police department; one daughter, Mrs. McNamara, and several grandchildren, all of this city.

Hennessey—Mrs. Hennessey, aged 66 years, for a number of years a faithful attendant of the Immaculate Conception church, died last night at the Chelmsford Street hospital. Her husband, James Hennessey, is a son, Martin, of this city, and two nieces and three nephews, all of Worcester. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker William A. Mack in Gorham street.

Bay—Mrs. Emma Bay, wife of Birge C. Bay, died at her late home in Pelham, N. H., yesterday. Funeral notice later.

or 16 officers came and arrested him. He remained in the station about an hour and a half, when he was bailed out. In the meantime, he asserted, no notice was called to attention to his wounds. He identified the stained shirt as that which he was wearing at the time of the melee. A woman who was present saw no fighting in the yard, but simply saw the men going into the house and coming out. She could not hear what they said, and was conscious of no noise. The defendant added, on cross-examination by Deputy Downey, that he had used the knife but in self defense only. He knew nothing of the moonshine, he said, and could not pick out the man who struck him because they all struck him.

After listening to the arguments of the defendant's lawyer and Deputy Downey, who claimed a doctor had been sent for to attend to Rotsekas' wounds, but arrived after he had left the building, Judge Fisher said he was prepared to believe that some of the witnesses were the aggressors. He didn't think, however, that the defendant should use a knife, rather than give a warning or call for the police, so he imposed the fine, from which defendant appealed.

Illegal Keeping
Mahomed Ahmed, charged with illegal keeping of liquor and maintaining a house of nuisance, was continued until July 26. James J. Glynn, for illegal keeping, was also continued. Joseph Marcotte, for drunkenness, was held in $100 bonds on his personal recognizance for two weeks. Joseph Marcotte, on a similar complaint, was held over until July 21 and one first offender had his drunkenness charge placed on file.

O. M. I. CADETS SIGN UP FOR SUMMER CAMP

At the registration held last night at the O.M.I. Cadet army, 125 young men signed up to take advantage of the privileges of their summer camp, which will open July 17 and continue for a week. The committee in charge announced that the registration books would be held open until next Friday night. The lists will then close and all who wish to attend camp should register before that time. The young campers are very fortunate in securing Officer Ryne to act as swimming instructor. Mr. Ryne is a veteran at the swimming game and he knows all the fine points of giving many persons from a watery grave. Officer Ryne will be in attendance throughout the week and will instruct the young men in the rudiments of swimming and will give special lessons to the more experienced.

WILL TRANSFER TWILIGHT PLAYGROUND

Starting tonight, the twilight playground, which was opened on Charles street, will be permanently transferred to Chapel street. This playground, together with the one conducted on the Lincoln school grounds is financed by the chamber of commerce. Some difficulty was encountered on Charles street because of the heavy traffic, and it was found also that it did not cover sufficient territory.

Secretary Wells of the chamber received permission from the street department to make a change and after looking the section over decided on Chapel street between Elm and Carter streets. There is very little traffic on this street, and it will draw from a much larger area. This new location will draw children from Church street to Hosford square on the Central street side, and from Lawrence to Gorham street, on the other side.

MORE DOG BITE CASES REPORTED

Two dog bite cases have been reported to the board of health since yesterday afternoon. Alice Johnson of 179 Powell street, was bitten on the leg by a dog owned by E. L. Crockett of 350 Lincoln street. The case was reported by Dr. Sweetser.

A dog owned by George B. Holden of Broadway street, bit Rita Sabourin of 86 Grove street.

Both cases have been turned over to Dr. Sherman for investigation.

DRUG STORES WILL CLOSE TOMORROW

Lowell drug stores will close at 9:30 tomorrow to allow the druggists and chemists to attend the annual outing which will be held at Whalom park, Pittsburg. The trip will be made by auto, starting from this city at 10 o'clock. A program of sports will be carried on, including a ball game between picked teams. Dinner will be served and a general good time is anticipated. The affair will be held regardless of weather conditions.

THE LOWELL GUILD

Visiting Nursing, Baby Hygiene Association. Clinics will be held: Tuesday and Friday from 2 to 5 p. m. at 17 Dutton street. Thursday from 10 to 12 a. m. at Elliot Street school. Saturday from 10 to 12 a. m. at Green Street school. Sunday from 10 to 12 a. m. at the basement of the Greek church, Jefferson street. ## FUNERALS

GUEVIN—The funeral of Albert Guevin, infant son of Arthur and Rosanna (Rancourt) Guevin, took place yesterday afternoon from the home of his parents, 52 Tucker street. Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery under the direction of Undertaker Amedee Archambault & Sons.

HUBBARD—The funeral services of Nelson C. Hubbard took place from the rooms of Undertaker W. Herbert Blake yesterday afternoon. Rev. N. W. Matthews, pastor of the Gorham Street P. M. church, officiated. Burial was in the Edison cemetery.

CONROY—The funeral of Patrick Conroy, the well known local expressionist, took place this morning from his late home, 40 Manchester street, at 9 o'clock, and was largely attended. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery. The funeral proceeded to the Sacred Heart church where, at 9 o'clock, a funeral high mass was celebrated by Rev. John E. Flynn. The funeral cortege, under the direction of Mr. John Kelly, sang the Gregorian chant. Mr. Kelly presided at the organ. The cortege was borne by the following bearers: Messrs. William Cowell, Lot Haley, James Ahern and John P. Deane. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read at the grave by Rev. Fr. Flynn, the pastor. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers O'Connell & Fay.

COURT DENIES PETITION HIGH SCHOOL

Automobile Dealers' Petition for Injunction Did Not Bear Signatures

Late yesterday afternoon, Judge Crosby of the supreme judicial court, denied the petition of the Lowell Automobile Dealers' Association for an injunction to restrain the city from paying for three Packard cars purchased by the mayor and the street department for the reason that the petition did not bear the signatures of 10 local taxpayers, as is required by law.

The signature of only one Lowell taxpayer was affixed to the bill of complaint, although 15 names were typewritten upon its face. James H. Gilbride, appearing for the petitioners, said that when he filed the bill he was not thoroughly conversant with the statutes governing it and asked if the legal signatures of 10 men must accompany it. When Judge Crosby said that this was the case, Mr. Gilbride said that he was accorded authority to amend his petition, he was "out of court."

NOTHING NEW IN MILL STRIKE SITUATION

There is no change in the strike at the Merrimack Mfg. Co. Agent Jude C. Wadleigh refuses to make any statement concerning the situation, while at strike headquarters very little information can be obtained. Some of the strikers held a meeting in Trades and Labor hall in Central street this morning and they reported that conditions were about the same yesterday. Some of the workers have come out and others have taken their places. They still maintain that the dyehouse, bleach house and cutting departments are badly handicapped, but they are unable to state just how many of the working force is out, although they place the figures in the vicinity of 600.

The men were addressed by John Hanley, chairman of the strike committee and at the close of the meeting the matter of picketing the plant was discussed. When questioned by The Sun, Mr. Hanley stated that the strikers are very confident of winning their fight. "They feel as we all do," he said, "that this strike at the Merrimack will not get a good start for a couple of weeks. A great number of the operatives will not do any thinking until they draw their first pay under the new schedule, and then when they realize that they are not earning enough to keep them they may protest."

Mr. Hanley also stated that the loomfixers, slasher tenders and ring spinner fixers of the mill are 100 per cent. organized, while about 50 per cent. of the weavers of the plant are members of the U.R.W. of A. He said he is positive that all the organized workers of the mill are out. At the office of the Merrimack this morning, The Sun man was told by Agent Wadleigh's secretary that the agent had no statement to make.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, there was a meeting of the strikers and other interested in the labor movement at Trades & Labor hall, and the gathering was addressed by Organizers Horace Riviere of Manchester, N. H., and Organizer Joseph White of Cohasset, N. Y.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a drawing contest at strike headquarters, when three live ducks and a hand-made floor mat will be given to the lucky winners. The contest was organized for the benefit of the strike fund.

Typewriting is suggested by one doctormachine as a good change of occupation for people who are inclined to worry.

ATHLETIC FIELD

High School Alumni Association Plans for Purchase of Spalding Park

Designs for New Entrance and Proposed Developments Shown at Meeting

The Lowell High School Alumni association met in the high school last night, to arrange final details for the fund drive to purchase Spalding park and additional land in that vicinity for an athletic field. Bennett Silverblatt occupied the chair and stated that the association again wished it, impressed on the general public that the once-talked-of First street stadium, if erected, would be a valuable asset to high school athletics as it could not be used exclusively by the school and admission could not be charged. He explained that the Spalding park grounds, costing approximately $32,000, could be used not only for baseball and football, but also for tennis, hockey and other sports, and the city will have nothing to do with it, as the movement is exclusively one on the part of the alumni.

An architect's design of a beautiful new entrance to the park and a sketch of the proposed developments were shown. It is planned to use portable bleachers instead of the stationary ones now in use. These bleachers can then be used for baseball and football games, as the occasion requires. Shower baths, lockers and other athletic equipment will also be installed and developed along permanent lines. A representative committee consisting of 26 men and eight women, has been appointed to conduct the drive. This committee comprises the following named: Abel K. Campbell, Oliver A. Doherty, John Garvey, William A. Hogan, Dr. G. Forrest Martin, Dennis J. Murphy, Elmore I. MacPhie, Frank McGilly, Harry G. Pollard, Arthur D. Prince, Dr. James H. Rooney, A. Hutchins Parker, Iona Perry D. Thompson, Bennett Silverblatt, Edward W. Trull, Gen. Gardner W. Pearson, John F. Sawyer, Fred N. Wier, Max Goldmann, John J. Pickman, Charles McIntyre, James P. Roane, Robert F. Marden, Elias McCundo, John Jacob Rogers, Charles H. Allen, Averlorn Souther, Mrs. Louis Olney, Mrs. Patrick Ryan, Mrs. Edward M. Murphy, Mrs. Macon B. Bryant, Mrs. Pierre N. Brunelle, Miss Alice Lee, Miss Elizabeth Harrigan and Miss Esther Zieklind.

It is further planned to popularize the movement by class organization and Mr. MacIntyre suggested that all captains of baseball and football teams since 1900 be added to the committee for the personal solicitation of funds. The school board and park department have approved their plan, and are in making the venture a success. Four national banks have consented to act as "receivers" for the fund and, with everything in readiness, the drive will be started within the next few days.

MATRIMONIAL
Mr. Charles C. Jacobs of Malden and Miss Martina Phil of this city, were married July 10 at the home of the bride, 148 Andover street, by Rev. J. Galtan. After the honeymoon trip to Nahant beach, the couple will make their home in Malden.

Machines are now in use which make elegant at the rate of 60,000 an hour as a good change of occupation for people who are inclined to worry.

DENISON, Tex., July 12.—One man was shot and forty-seven alleged strike breakers and four deputy United States marshals were attacked by a mob of several hundred men, believed to be strikers and sympathizers, while being marched from the Union depot to the M.K. & T. station here, early this morning. Sixteen of the men were kidnapped, hustled into automobiles, taken to the Red River bottoms and flogged.

The others escaped. Four men, claiming to be victims of the mob, were found wandering along the railroad tracks at Colbert, Okla., this morning. Those who escaped the mob were escorted out of Denison. The situation was quiet here, at noon.

MR. MURPHY ON THE JOB

Public Service Board Chairman Strikes Sutton Wilson's Name From Payroll

Hon. Dennis J. Murphy, once again sitting at the head of the board of public service, took his best liked pen in hand this noon and signed the payrolls of the departments that come under the board's control, but not before he had subjected each to the closest scrutiny.

"This well I did," said he this afternoon, "for I found our dear, old friend Sutton Wilson, with us again. His name appeared on the payroll of the department of ashes and waste collection in the amount of $40 and he was designated as 'storehouse keeper and general utility man'."

"What did you do when you came upon Mr. Wilson's name?" was the question asked.

"With one long sweep of the pen I blotted it out of the picture," was the chairman's reply.

Before Messrs. Leary and Murphy were deplacated Mr. Wilson's name had been stricken from the payroll in a manner similar to that employed today. After being ousted from his superintendent's job by the civil service, the mayor dubbed him storehouse keeper and general all around good fellow and decided that the city might well pay him $40 each week for his efforts.

Inasmuch as the board did not have a part in this creation, Mr. Wilson's name disappeared in a cloud of eradicating ink.

Then came the removal of Murphy and Leary and Sutton's return to the payroll.

"He was paid last week," said Chairman Murphy, "but let's see him step up to the treasurer's window and collect this coming Friday."

Yes, sir, Mr. Murphy is back on the job.

Report That Coal Men Would Have President Modify His Plan

Government Officials Declare Operators Are Delaying and Evading Action

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Officials of the United Mine Workers of America, after a conference today with Secretary of Labor Davis, were understood to have decided to seek a conference with President Harding at which request will be made that the executive modify his coal strike settlement plan so as to guarantee that any decision made by the proposed arbitration commission shall be binding on all operators in the country.

High government officials declared today that in their opinion both United Mine Workers' officials and spokesmen for the bituminous operators were delaying and evading action on President Harding's plan for arbitration of the coal strike in an effort to ascertain whether public opinion will permit a rejection of the settlement proposal.

These officials declared that meantime a serious situation in the matter of the public coal supply was likely to develop. This is particularly true, it was added, because of the damage to the railroads serving non-union coal mining territory where output is continuing.

Only the force of public opinion is now available to back up the president's offer and administration action.

State Supervisor Shouts "Good Morning" as He Withdraws From Room

BOSTON, July 12.—Prohibition Supervisor James P. Roberts, after charging in open court today that United States Commissioner Hayes had "disqualified himself" to sit in judgment on a liquor case, refused to testify and left the courtroom with his agents.

Commissioner Hayes, after a conference with Assistant Federal Attorney William J. White, Jr., said he would issue a subpoena for Roberts' attendance when the hearing was resumed tomorrow.

The case before the court was that of two sailors charged with possessing and transporting liquor. When the hearing was called, Supervisor Roberts said: "I am unable to go on with this hearing because this commissioner has disqualified himself. I ask that the case be transferred to another commissioner."

Commissioner Hayes said: "This man is here as a witness, nothing else. The moment he presents a case to the district attorney, his interest in it ceases, except as a witness."

"Good morning," shouted Roberts, and calling his agents, left the court without explaining his charge that the commissioner was disqualified.

STATE AID SUPERINTENDENT REPLIES TO HIS CRITICS

William A. Arnold Gives His Side of Story of Wounded Soldier Who Sought Aid—Says Ex-Service Men Did Not Hesitate to Take Jobs When Boston Policemen Went Out on Strike

William A. Arnold, superintendent of state aid, was at his office at city hall today, as usual, after his run-in yesterday with Stephen C. Garrity, commander of Lowell post of the American Legion, when the latter claimed that assistance had been refused to a wounded veteran of the World war.

"As I have told you many times," said Mr. Arnold today, "the American Legion, through its present commander, has persistently interfered with the functions of this office."

"If you wish to hear the true story of yesterday's affair, I will say that on Monday, James P. Roberts came to the office and we talked over the matter of aid. He did not state that he was wounded. He simply stated he was out of work. Under those conditions it would seem that while there was work at the mills he should apply for it. Our law does not provide for strikes. He was told that if he did not get work before the 17th of the month to return and his case would be further investigated. He left without any antagonism. He does not speak very good English, but apparently understood what I said."

The next chapter in the story came when Garrity appeared and interrogated me as to the why and wherefore of the case. Naturally I refused to be questioned by one without any authority to do so.

The fact that members of the Legion are here as a witness, nothing else.

Reported That Boston & Maine Men Retired on Pension Have Been Ordered to Report for Work or Sacrifice Pension and Pass Privileges—Engineers and Firemen on the Anxious Seat

Unless the old men who were retired on pension some time ago by the Boston & Maine railroad report for work at once, they will lose their pass privileges and pension. This information is contained in notices sent out to all the men whose names appear on the pension roll of the company, and the statement is from strike headquarters.

Some time ago the road adopted a pension system by which men who have served the company in any capacity for a certain number of years, are retired on pension. These men, most of whom are incapacitated, are also allowed pass privileges for themselves and members of their families on any part of the road, but it is understood that they are kept on the reserve force and can be called back to work in case of emergency.

A few days ago, so it was stated at strike headquarters, notices have been received by men whose names appear on the pension roll, ordering them to report at once and that if they did not comply with the orders, they would lose their pension and pass privileges. The notices, it is said, had not the slightest effect upon the men, and as far as the Billerica shops are concerned, not one man reported.

MOONSHINE INCREASES MENTAL DISORDERS

(Special to The Sun.)

BOSTON, July 12.—Moonshine whiskey and Jamaica ginger were responsible for a remarkable increase in mental disorders resulting in a rush for admissions to the Tufts state hospital for the treatment of mental diseases during the past year. Superintendent John R. Macdonald of the asylum or "hospital," as the authorities prefer to call it, stated that of the total admissions 8.1 per cent, this year are classified under the alcoholic psychosis. First admission of alcoholics comprised 8.6 per cent of the total first admission, as against 4.7 per cent for the previous year. Total admission of alcoholics, including first admissions and re-admissions numbered 32 in 1920 and 53 in 1921.

Although moonshine and Jamaica ginger were responsible for most of the admissions from alcoholism, home brewed wine and cider figured in four or five cases. Practically all of these drinking patients stated to the hospital authorities that they had no difficulty in procuring their booze in their home districts either by the glass or by the bottle. The "hospital" authorities complain that they cannot give the patients the best treatment possible because of the enormous overcrowding at the institution. This overcrowding is "objectionable from a medical, a humanitarian and every other point of view."

There will be a public installation of the state officers of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars on next Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. These officers were elected at the recent state convention.

NOTED BOSTON ARTIST IS DEAD

BOSTON, July 12.—Frank H. Tompkins, one of Boston's distinguished artists, died in Peter Bent Brigham hospital early yesterday morning. He was 75 years old. Mr. Tompkins, returning from a southern trip on a steamship, last spring, caught a severe cold which he couldn't seem to get rid of. He went to the Peter Bent Brigham hospital two weeks ago with pneumonia and sank steadily.

Mr. Tompkins was widely distinguished for his portrait painting. He was an excellent draftsman and a painter of unusual strength. Frank Tompkins was born in Hecet, N. Z., in 1847, and studied art in the Chennett School of Design and the Art Students League in New York. Then he went to Munich and studied under Leo von Klenze at the Royal Academy, taking several prizes. He opened a studio in London in 1887 and painted a portrait of Judge R. L. Hoar of Concord for Harvard college. He had a studio in Paris from 1898 to 1909, when he returned to Boston. He was a member of the Boston Art club and had an exhibition of his works there last winter which covered the whole period of his artistic life. His last work was a portrait of Rev. Horatio G. Ladd.

Mr. Tompkins never married. There always had been a rumor of an early romance. He lived at 61 Clarendon street.

TAKE STEPS TO UNITE CANADIAN SCHOOLS

HALIFAX, N. The suggestion of the foundation was that an existing move to this city and become part of a great university modeled on the Oxford system.

At the meeting here committees were appointed to consider the details involved in the federation scheme. The following resolution was adopted: "That we consider the coming form of confederation of existing higher institutions of learning in these Maritime Provinces is necessary for the proper progress of our people and we undertake to do all in our power to bring this about."

A conference has been called for Aug. 24 in this city at which representatives of the governments of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland will discuss the university project with the college heads.

WOULD CHARGE CITY FOR LOSS OF RENT

City Treasurer Fred H. Bourke has received a bill for $675 from Yervant Soukthian of 67 First street, who bases his claim on loss of rent and business since May 15, when he was notified by the city engineer that his property was about to be seized by the city.

The man claims ownership of a store and 11 tenements at 61, 63, 65 and 67 First street. He says the city and one tenant, Early in May, on receipt of notice from the city engineer, he ordered his property vacated, in anticipation of the seizure being made immediately. He estimates that he has lost $50 a week in rents for a period of nine weeks, and $235 in business in his store because of failure to keep his stock up to standard, since he expected to close at once.

He adds a warning that the matter will be placed in the hands of an attorney after July 20, if payment of the bill is not made by that time.

MR. PEERABOUT STARTS TO MOON, BUT MISSES IT

"LOOK," HE CRIED, CATCHING BUSKINS' ARM AND POINTING. "THERE'S THE STAR THAT COMET-LEGS RIDES."

Buskins, the funny little fairyman in the apple tree, looked at poor Mr. Peerabout, the Moon-Man, in surprise. Mr. Peerabout had fallen down from the Moon, you know, and landed in the top boughs.

When Buskins found out who the Moon-Man was he offered to take him up to the sky in his little elevator.

"Oh, thank you," said Mr. Peerabout gratefully. And he lost no time in climbing through the apple-branches to the funny little house, or elevator, or whatever it was.

Buskins pulled a handle and the little elevator began to move, slowly at first, then faster and faster, up through the sky.

"They passed all sorts of odd places, but Buskins was so interested in the Moon-Man's story and the Moon-Man was so busy talking, that neither of them saw a thing!"

And they looked very hard they would have seen Nancy and Nick and the Weatherman riding a big green umbrella. But they never saw a sign of them.

And what do you think they did? They went right past the Moon—right past it—on up—past stars and planets and the Milky Way and Mars and Venus and everything.

All at once Mr. Peerabout looked around. "Where are we?" he exclaimed. Buskins stopped the elevator.

"Lost if I know," he said. "I guess we've gone too far. We'll have to go back. Here's—Buskins—Land where the Weatherman lives."

But Mr. Peerabout's sharp eyes had spied something. He'd noticed the Weatherman's house with its big chimney, and tied to the chimney by a long rope was a star.

"Look," he cried, catching Buskins' arm and pointing. "There's the star, that Comet-Legs rides. Do you s'pose how near? He's the one that pushed me off the Moon. Let's stop!"

"Taxpayers, Organize to Save Your Money!" Says Borah

BY HARRY B. HUNT
WASHINGTON, July 12.—Organization of "taxpayers' associations" in every village, township, city and county, through which the average citizen can make effective his demand for relief from mounting governmental taxes is suggested by Senator William E. Borah, republican of Idaho.

"It is only by pressure from 'the folks back home,' Borah says, 'that relief will be secured. And in order to make the demands of constituents effective on congress, taxpayer must be organized.'

"Once organizations of taxpayers not single individuals, begin demanding that their representatives here act to relieve their tax load instead of making it heavier, then and only then will they get results."

Borah's suggestion of taxpayers' organizations followed his recent attack on his party's program to put through a high tariff bill, a soldier bonus measure, a ship subsidy bill and other legislation which he maintains would add to the tax and cost-of-living burden of the average citizen.

Work Two Ways
"Taxpayers' associations," Borah declares "would be a distinct aid in two ways. They would enable men and women back home to band together in their demands for relief in a manner that would force attention of their representatives in Washington."

"And they would also, through the increased discussion and study of tax and other governmental problems, give the people a better understanding of the matters at issue."

"It was a rather black picture I painted in my speech to the senate but every statement is supported by facts and figures."

"Constant increase of governmental expenditure has reached the point where it breeds a revolution. Everywhere men are denouncing and criticizing their government. The people's faith and patience are nearing exhaustion."

"It is proposed as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way to take up the ship subsidy bill. That will provide a fairly good example of a vicious system of tax exemption, in my judgment quite as much as if it voted bonds or obligations of the government."

"After that is to come the soldiers' bonus bill—which will mean an extra burden of from $4,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000."

"If these measures stand alone, we might look upon them with less concern. But they are the expressions of what seems to be a deep-rooted tendency."

"If all the money were appropriated which by bills has been suggested, or if all the debts were created which such proposed measures would entail, it would place a mortgage upon the brain and the energy of our people which a thousand years could not lift."

"There is already great discontent throughout this country, and when discontent is widespread it is never without justification."

"It is evident the burden government continues to impose upon the people is becoming unbearable. It is getting upon the nerves of the public."

"If the folks back home want to end this condition, the power to do it is within their grasp."

"Individually, they cannot move congress or the party leaders in charge of legislation."

"Collectively, they can. By organizing associations of taxpayers, by making their demands in mass instead of separately, congress can be made to heed. It is only through organization that anything is accomplished with congress. The reason one side is able to put its measures through is because it is organized while the opposition isn't."

"When the folks back home organize to stop exorbitant and unreasonable governmental expenditures, such expenditures will be stopped."

"Now is the time to act."

DIFFER ON DEATH
Doctors Advance Different Theories Regarding End of Mrs. Hotchkiss

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 12.—Some time today, Dr. W. H. Donaldson of Fairfield, medical examiner of that town, will give Coroner John J. Phelan his report on the death of Mrs. Jane Hotchkiss, who was found floating in the water on Fairfield beach Tuesday afternoon. He will give his opinion that Mrs. Hotchkiss met her death by accidental drowning.

Coroner Phelan yesterday said that he would probably accept Dr. Donaldson's findings. However, Dr. P. A. Christian of Fairfield, who was the first physician to examine Mrs. Hotchkiss' body, after a life-guard drew it to the beach, says that he believes death was due to a poison which "this appears to me," said Dr. Christian, "to be simply a difference of opinion between doctors. I do not wish to reflect upon Mrs. Hotchkiss' family, or Dr. Donaldson, but I am satisfied with my diagnosis and that it was a well-planned suicide by poison and not a case of drowning."

Dr. Christian says he believes Mrs. Hotchkiss was dead before the life-guard drew her body ashore. She had been in the water 15 minutes.

He was uncertain what drug had been taken by Mrs. Hotchkiss. This, he said, could only be determined by an autopsy. He had examined one of the white tablets found in Mrs. Hotchkiss' pocketbook which she left in the bathroom and it had no poisonous ingredients.

Members of the Hotchkiss family continue to believe that death followed sudden immersion in cold water. The Fairfield authorities have made no inquiry and intend to make an autopsy ordered by Coroner Phelan. Medical Examiner Garlick of Bridgeport will not make an autopsy unless he receives orders.

"Dr. Donaldson and the coroner will probably have a conference when the former files his report."

PLAYGROUND COMMITTEE
Three committees have been formed from the instructors of the girls on the playgrounds to take charge of the different playground activities, as follows:

Girls' baseball league—Miss Marie Leach, Greenhedge school playgrounds; Miss Agnes Dudley, Lakeview avenue; and Miss Nelda Cross, Varnum school. Those in charge of the volleyball league are: Miss Charlotte Green, North common; Miss Mary Dowd, Moody street; and Miss Mary Kelley, Aiken street. The captain ball league is in charge of Miss Helen Chadler, South common; Miss Mildred Collier, Butler school; and Miss Lillian Moran, of the Washington park playgrounds.

State Aid Superintendent Replies to Critics

gion resent that they were advised to accept work in a shop where there was labor trouble is laughable. You may recall the police strike in Boston a few years ago, when ex-soldiers tumbled over themselves in order to take the places of the striking policemen. They were willing to be called 'scabs' then simply because there was enough money in it. It is not the principal of the matter, but the financial remuneration that seems to count. "This office is without doubt, the hardest office in the building to work in and obtain results. The deception that is practiced by some of the applicants would keep Pinkerton busy. But there are always a few intelligent ones, association with whom makes up for the unpleasantness."

"While we are on the subject I will quote to you from a letter received a few days ago from the commissioner of state aid in which he says:

"I am in receipt of your letter of July 5th, in which you ask advice as to what this office thinks should be your attitude in the matter of relief for men who are out on strike. It is my opinion that the soldiers' relief that we cannot very well backhitch up in applying for soldiers' relief when there is work to be had."

Another Complaint
Another complaint against Supt. Arnold was received today by Com. Garritty when Louis F. LaFleur, World War veteran, alleged that he had been refused aid at that office.

According to the story told Mr. Garritty by LaFleur, he went to the state aid office on the last Thursday in June, seeking assistance and was told to go to the Merrimack mills, where he could secure "all kinds of work."

LaFleur states that he has not worked for five months, is married, has one child, has no money and is behind in his rent payments. He showed a certificate signed by Dr. C. J. B. O'Brien, to the effect that his wife is not strong enough to do any kind of work.

School Janitors Meet
Continued

Much routine business was disposed of, after which the following nominations were presented: President, John P. Carr of Cambridge (unopposed); Vice-president, Timothy F. Twomey, Worcester; John J. Madden, Boston; Charles L. Hamilton, Lynn; and William F. Prince, Haverhill; Secretary, Terrence F. Coney, Lowell (unopposed); Treasurer, Waldo H. Lesure, Lawrence (unopposed); auditors, John Barrett of Lowell, Wallace G. Tilton of New Bedford, and George Sharp of Fall River.

D. A. Dooley, of the state board of education, gave an instructive talk on state university courses as they apply to janitors. Supt. Kelly of the Ballard Oil Burring company, of Boston, spoke on oil as a fuel for schools.

The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock to allow the delegates to attend an outing at Willow Dale where a buffet lunch was served and sports of every description indulged in. A banquet will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The meeting officers of the association are as follows: President, John P. Carr, Cambridge; vice president, Charles L. Hamilton, Lynn; treasurer, Waldo H. Lesure, Lawrence; secretary, Terrence F. Coney, Lowell, executive committee, John P. Carr, Waldo H. Lesure, Terrence F. Coney, John Murray and Thomas M. Keegan, the last named of Lowell.

not be requested to operate locomotives that are drawing carloads of strikers' breakers. They are now awaiting an answer from international headquarters.

Strikers who reside in the town of Billerica held an enthusiastic meeting in Union hall in that town last evening. They were addressed by members of the executive board of the federated crafts and a system of picketing was arranged. Most of the picketing at the shops is being done by employees who reside in the town.

NEW YORK CENTRAL TO NOTE SUBMITTED ON MORATORIUM

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The New York Central railroad was authorized by an interstate commerce commission order today, to complete its control of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad by purchasing all of the outstanding preferred and common stock issues.

The New York Central owns 52 per cent. of the outstanding stock issues of the road which also is known as the Big Four and operates the property as a part of its own general system.

Holders of the preferred stock of the Big Four, the commission decision indicated, objected to the issuance of the order on the ground that the New York Central did not offer a high enough price for their holdings, but the commission ruled that it was concerned in nothing but the transportation phases and that a complete merger of the Big Four with the New York Central would be in the public interests.

Commissioner Eastman dissented from the majority opinion.

SHIPPING BETWEEN LOWELL AND BOSTON

"AC present the chamber of commerce is busy filing statistics that will show the amount of shipping that passes between Lowell and Boston. These figures will cover the traffic conducted by the railroads, the motor trucks. This is being done in order to have a correct estimate of the transportation, so that it can be given to the legislative committee when they convene for the purpose of co-ordinating the carrying facilities of this district."

Questionnaires are being sent to the owners and drivers of motor trucks here in Lowell and also to the mills and industries that do their own trucking. When these are returned to the chamber, they can form an estimate of the amount of carrying done between here and Boston. It is hoped that these figures will convince the committee that it is necessary to keep the roads from Boston to Boston in the best possible condition.

Doherty the Next Question

tendent of streets, that he has not been legally removed and that he stands ready and willing to carry on the department's work.

"I told the board in January that I felt able to carry on the work of the street department in the role of superintendent, but if the members of the board at any time that I was not handling the job well, to tell me to get out."

Mrs. George H. Brown had very little to say today about the action of the board in reinstating Messrs. Murphy and Leary.

When asked what he would do if the board reinstated Mr. Doherty, the mayor replied that he might do something, but was not prepared to say just what.

The entire matter may result in a very interesting question of status before it is settled. If the board should believe with Mr. Doherty that he has been illegally removed, or, in fact, has not been removed at all, no reinstatement would be necessary.

The mayor, of course, contends that Mr. Doherty is not under civil service and therefore could be removed for a cause deemed sufficient, without presenting to him any reasons therefore. No reasons for his removal by the mayor, of course, Messrs. MacKenzie and Cloutier, temporary board members, have been given to him. Mr. Doherty believes he is under civil service and at least one member of the old and present board, Mr. Murphy, shares this belief.

The council's action last night automatically retired Collin H. MacKenzie and Joseph A. Cloutier to their former places in the city's service—Mr. Cloutier as chief clerk and Mr. MacKenzie as secretary and Mr. MacKenzie to return to his job as custodian of the Memorial Auditorium. However, as the latter is not being paid by the city for his work there, he held two jobs temporarily. Mr. Cloutier resigned as secretary during his term of office as a public service board member.

As George Bowen is out of town and Mr. Murphy intends to take a brief vacation there will not be a meeting of the public service board until some day next week.

Second Operation on Judge Holmes

BOSTON, July 12.—A second operation was performed today on Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes who has been at a private hospital here for several weeks. Physicians there said that the operation was entirely successful and that Justice Holmes' condition was good and his early restoration to health confidently expected.

Lands Whiskey Boat—Is Arrested

CALAIS, Me., July 12.—J. Hiland of Bangor, was arrested by United States customs officers early today soon after he was alleged to have landed a boat with 300 quarts of whiskey at Whalen's Landing. He will be taken to Bangor for arraignment tonight. The whiskey was said to have been brought from St. Stephen, N. B., across the St. Croix river from there.

tain interstate transportation and the carrying of the United States mails."

Peaceful settlement of controversies between shop craft employees and carriers in accordance with law and due respect for the established agencies of such settlement are essential to the security and well-being of our people," the proclamation stated, and added that men who choose to work under the terms of the labor board's decision which led to the walkout, "have the same indisputable right to work that others have to decline to work."

Answer President
NEW YORK, July 12.—President Harding's proclamation on the rail shop crafts strike resulted today in a public declaration by the "strike conduct" committee of the eastern railroads that they would "continue on strike until a satisfactory settlement is reached, even if every mail train in the district is cancelled."

Clerk Killed
CREWE, Va., July 12.—Russell Wiggins, a Norfolk & Western yard office clerk, was killed and an unidentified man was wounded when someone shot into a crowd of picketing clerks at the station here, last night. All the Norfolk & Western clerks here walked out yesterday morning.

Foreman Assaulted
FORT WORTH, Tex., July 12.—According to a report received here this morning and confirmed at the Santa Fe office in Cleburne, a general foreman employed in the shops at Cleburne was taken from his work last night by a crowd of men and assaulted. The foreman had remained in the shop when the shop men struck wages.

Investigate Abduction
ROODHOUSE, Ill., July 12.—Investigation today of the abduction yesterday of Bert Dickson, night roundhouse foreman for the Chicago & Alton R.R., has not disclosed the identity of the abductor.

Dickson was injured and feathered. He is said to be a relation of W. G. Herd, president of the road.

Must Be Vacancy
PORTLAND, Me., July 12.—No man now on strike will be taken back into the service of the Maine Central railroad, or the Portland Terminal Co. unless there is a vacancy at the time he applies for work, and no man will be displaced to give him employment. General Manager Dana C. Douglass announced in a statement received today by employees in the several shop crafts.

He said that the men who would be given the benefit of ratings and rates as wages as fixed by the United States railroad labor board.

Settlement Near
CHICAGO, July 12.—(By the Associated Press) Settlement of the rail strike seemed possibly a step nearer today when it was disclosed that secret conferences have been held between Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board and leaders of the six striking shop crafts.

President Harding's intervention in the strike through his proclamation calling for protection of transportation of the mails was accepted as bearing much significance.

A telephone call from Washington to W. L. McMillen, one of the three labor members of the board, was said by the Chicago Tribune to have come from the president.

Fresh disorders at scattered points, while troops patrolled former trouble centers, arrangements for a conference today by the big four train service brotherhoods, and an announcement by D. M. Jewell, head of the striking shop crafts that conferences of 21 northwestern railroads among other important developments.

Additional Injunctions
Additional injunctions restraining strikers from interfering with railway operations were granted to several roads. New appeals for troops were made to the governors of Mississippi, Tennessee and Texas, while Governor Doyle of Nevada, was asked by the Union Pacific for troops.

Disorders occurred at Chicago, Milwaukee, Sayre, Pa., Orville, Ohio, Dennison, Tex., and at Roodhouse, Ill.

At Algona, Ia., four negroes working in the shops of the Southern Railway were fired upon by a crowd of whites, 12 of whom were arrested for violating the federal injunction. The prisoners denied they were strikers.

Clinton, Ill., New Franklin and Slater, Mo., and Paragard, Kas., where troops were on duty, remained comparatively quiet.

The situation at Bloomington, Ill., remained tense, with troops holding the yards and shops. Frequent shootings and the general hostile attitude of strikers and large crowds of sympathizers kept national guardsmen on the vigil.

Meanwhile city and county authorities were attempting to re-establish civil government. Engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors announced that they would refuse to enter the Alton yards at Bloomington to take out trains as long as machine guns bristled in the shops. They voted only to operate mail trains unless the trains were delivered to them outside the shop district during the encampment of the troops in the yards.

Big Four Meet
The meeting of the "Big Four" brotherhood chiefs was called for the purpose of discussing issues growing out of the shopmen's strike.

Among other developments of the last 24 hours was the announcement of D. M. Jewell, president of the railroad signmakers, that a strike would be called, and the failure of a clearing station employees and freight handlers on the Norfolk & Western to respond to an official authorization of a strike.

Shop crafts leaders expressed satisfaction over the success of the strike while most of the roads were disappointed. The Santa Fe, Burlington and Missouri, Kansas & Texas announced that conditions were steadily improving on their lines. Santa Fe shopmen were reported by the road to be returning to work in considerable numbers.

Police at Boston drove pickets away from employment agencies, where men were accepted for railroad work.

Roseville, Calif., officials were investigating the dynamiting of one of the largest water tanks on the Southern Pacific system by a group of unknown men and an attack by strikers upon an employee of the Pacific Fruit Express.

John Walkout
Two hundred maintenance of way employees on the Central railroad of New Jersey at Wilkesbarre, Pa., joined the walkout and 100 section men at Dennison, Ohio, went out on strike.

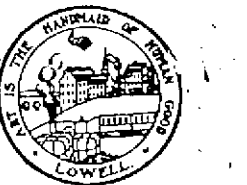

The Baltimore & Ohio, and the Erie sent some of their rolling stock to outside shops for repairs.

Mr. Jewell, commenting on President Harding's proclamation said the way to end the strike was to call a conference of railroad executives and shop crafts leaders.

Neither Mr. Jewell nor Chairman Hooper of the labor board suggested a tendency to yield much from the positions they took at the outset of the strike.

36 LOTS SOLD AT AUCTION FOR TAXES
Thirty-six parcels of land were sold at auction for taxes this morning in the office of the city treasurer, the sale being conducted by Joseph Farrell, assistant treasurer. The majority of parcels sold brought less than $50 each. As no bids were received on 21 other parcels put up for sale, they were postponed until tomorrow.

Originally there were 104 parcels of land advertised for sale, but between the time of advertisement and the auction today, the number shrank to 57, taxes on the others having been paid.

State Income Tax Receipts Are Large

BOSTON, July 12.—State income tax receipts this year have been larger than was anticipated, according to a statement made today by Henry F. Long, commissioner of corporations and taxation. He estimated that the new tax rates for the various cities and towns in the state would show an average increase of approximately 10 per cent over last year's figures. In certain municipalities where appropriations have been cut to a minimum, Mr. Long expressed the opinion that there would be no great increase in taxes.

MILL HAZARDS AND HOW TO AVOID THEM

Issued by the
Massachusetts Safety Council

BY H. L. REES, Safety Engineer
Federal Mutual Liability Ins. Co.
Horseplay is the name generally applied to fooling, rough-housing and any sort of boisterous conduct at gatherings of either or both sexes. Horseplay very often occurs among employees of various manufacturing and mercantile industries, and in many cases serious and lasting injuries have been suffered as a result. The time is often the noon hour when the employees are enjoying a few minutes before again starting to work. In probably no case has the result of a possible injury been foreseen or anticipated and the whole affair usually starts from the excessive jollity of some fellow worker.

One of the most dangerous features is that the horseplay started during the relaxation period before beginning to work, is often carried into the work room and maintained during the few minutes that employees are starting up the machines and again getting adjusted to their work.

It will be news to many workers to know that horseplay, under certain circumstances, may prevent a man from receiving his compensation when injured. Here is what a court has ruled as cited in Volume 1, Negligence Compensation cases:
"It is not within the scope of employment of workmen, whether boys or men, to indulge in horseplay, and injury thereby sustained by a workman, even though he is not a party to the horseplay, is not an injury by accident arising either in the course of or out of the employment."
With the workers in many of the textile plants, the hazard element of their particular machine becomes gradually forgotten and, as the mind wanders to other interests, the instinct to joke with the other operators grows out every now and then. The good natured shoves and another passes by. The catching hold of the swinging hand or the tossing of some small article to attract another's attention, while in itself of little consequence, often causes the one being joked to unconsciously reach out to prevent slipping or stumbling, with the most serious consequences for fingers and hands, which are liable to come in contact with rapidly moving gears, belts, shafting or the like.

Recently, an operator in the spinning room of one of our nearby mills tossed some candy to a young girl operator in the same aisle. As the other reached in the air to catch it, her hands slipped and down she went, striking her head on the base of the spinning frame, making a gash which took three stitches to close up. Surely the candy was not worth such a price.

Little did Jake Manning realize the seriousness of his "horseplay" when he threw the candy across the machine shop recently. It was pay-day and everyone in the shop was feeling in the best of spirits. The lunch hour was just over and Jake had returned to his work, finishing an apple which had been part of the lunch. In a spirit of boyishness he threw the core at his particular friend, Tom, across the shop. Unfortunately the core hit a shafting and glancing to the left struck Fred Marshall in the face. Fred had started his machine preparatory to cutting some steel plates. As the apple core struck him he gave an involuntary movement with his hands and his right hand went under the descending jaw of the shear. There was a short, sharp cry of pain and one of the best employees of the shop had lost four fingers of his right hand.

CHILDREN HAD BIG DAY IN TEWKSBURY
Conducted to the grounds of the Old State House in Tewksbury yesterday, in more than 4000 persons for the occasion, 200 children from the French-American orphanage, in the care of Rev. Joseph B. O'Brien, pastor of St. Jean Baptiste church, enjoyed their annual outing with a number of sport events and two appetizing meals as the principal features.

Following is the list of those who sent autos, each seating seven little passengers if necessary: Vincent Gargano, 2; Mr. Leno, 2; Fred Lamoureux, Auburn Motors, Church street auto, garage, Lehighman-Maxwell, Lowell Bulk Co., Essex Motor Co., S. H. C. Motor Co., Willie Peiffer, Mr. Williams, Lowell Motor Mart, Maurice Lambert, Mr. Hoag, Pitts Motor company, Mayor George H. Brown, Supt. Connor, the police car, the Haynes car, the public service car, W. C. Macfarlane, John Hayes, Henry Watson, Mr. Lavilla, Mr. Thorne, J. H. Peiffer, Arthur Peiffer, J. W. Achin, J. B. Morin, A. Vincent, Mr. Parr, Victor Achin, T. Robitaille, Lowell Stubsaker Co., Joe Chomnard, Mr. Heady, Mr. Harner, Mr. LaRoche, Mr. Lord and Mr. Thomas.

Two truckloads of ice cream, toys and novelties were contributed by local merchants, and more were promised if the little folks' appetites proved greater than estimated.

While playing near her home late yesterday afternoon, Mary Dore, a little girl residing at 210 School street, fell from a fence and fractured her left arm. The ambulance removed her to the Lowell Corporation hospital.

STATE COMMANDER

Few Candidates Announce Themselves for Head of American Legion

BOSTON, July 12.—Massachusetts Legionnaires, who were Johnny Haultights during the World war, are likely to be well pleased with the candidates thus far spread before them for the elections at the state convention of the legion, in New Bedford, Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2, and the national convention at New Orleans, Oct. 16 to 21 inclusive.

Senior Vice Commander William H. Doyle of Malden is the first and only candidate who has thus far declared himself for state commander of the Legion for 1923. The general platform on which he has declared himself is "a square deal for the disabled veterans."

In His Opinion
Specifically that means working to see that the Sweet bill is carried out to the full extent of the law, which, in Mr. Doyle's opinion, is the principal preventive measure against country-wide economic unrest, which has been legislated in the last year.

Other planks in the platform are in behalf of employment for veterans, securing preference both in the cases of private employers and of the civil service. His final plank is to make the Massachusetts department of the Legion the greatest and most powerful for good of any state in the nation.

The present senior vice commander has always been an ardent Legionnaire, some times, friends say, at the expense of his own pocket. No enemy ever accused him of being a man of anything but single purpose, it is said.

In 1919 he was practically the first Legionnaire to protest against what he considered unfairness and inefficiency in the workings of the old Public Health Service at 101 Milk street, later merged into the many-headed, many-divided Veterans' Bureau.

As vice-chairman of the New England district rehabilitation committee of the Legion he has consistently fought and opposed what he believed to be injustice to disabled men on the part of the Veterans' Bureau. And he has been instrumental in achieving a great deal of consideration for the disabled veterans, as described from time to time in the newspaper this last spring.

In World War
In the World War Mr. Doyle, a graduate of the Massachusetts Nautical school in 1909 as a marine engineer, enrolled in the Naval Reserve in the spring of 1917. He was married, with two children, and not obliged to join. No special training was necessary, so Ensign Doyle immediately started in the engine room, bringing steamers from the Great Lakes and from Three Rivers, Que. to Boston and New York. He began as an ensign and was mustered out as an ensign. He says he'd have much preferred to be a Johnny Haultight throughout.

Mr. Doyle joined the Legion at its inception in 1918 and was one of the organizers of Malden Post, serving first as vice, then as acting commander. There were 27 members when he was elected as vice commander, 537 when he ceased to be acting commander, and 1303 when he ceased to be permanent commander.

At the Springfield convention in 1920 he was elected second vice commander of the state department and at North Adams last September senior vice commander.

At North Adams a "dark horse" for state commander was A. Loring Swasey of Taunton, the yacht designer, and one of the few volunteers in the Naval Reserve who advanced to the dignity of a "three-striper" in the navy—commander.

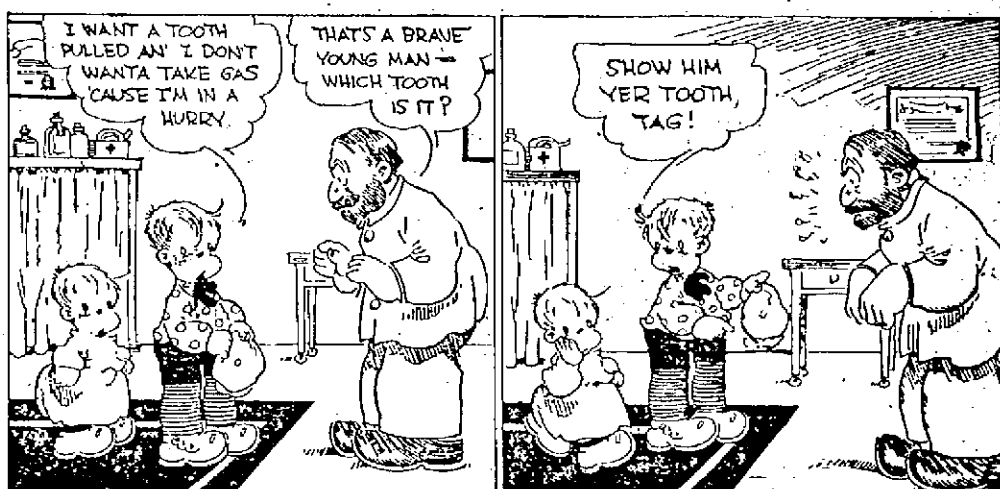

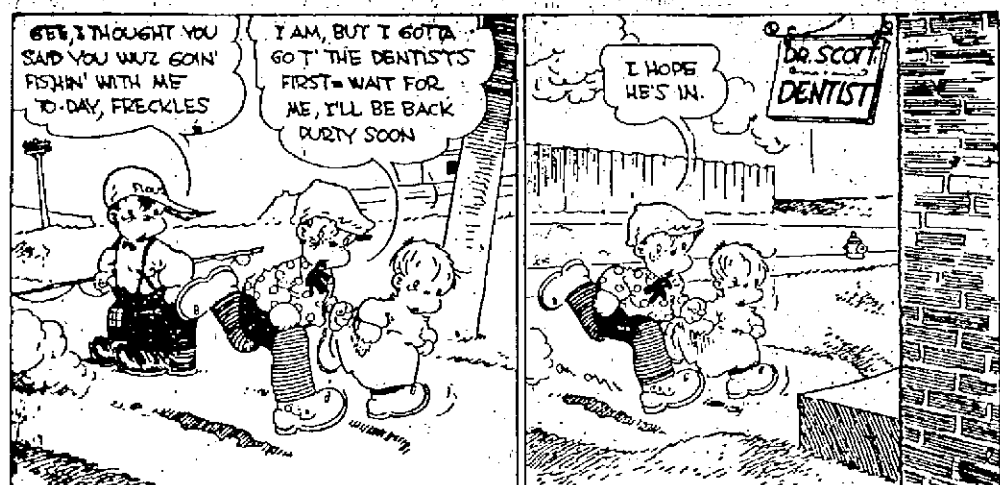

His Mother Ill
Mr. Swasey could not be at the North Adams convention. He was concerned over the serious illness of his mother in Philadelphia, which subsequently turned out unfavorably.

He says he has no intention of being a candidate for state office at this year's New Bedford convention, but desires to be selected one of the national vice commanders at the national convention in New Orleans.

Judging from the potency of Massachusetts in the elections at Kansas City last November, especially that of Lieutenant Commander Raymond O. Brackett of Marblehead as a vice-commander, the chances of Commander Swasey seem rosy.

A probable candidate for state treasurer of the Legion is Capt. Silas W. Wicks of Newton, son of the secretary of war. In other years he has been urged to run for the office, but always heretofore has said that his business, banking, would perhaps prevent his giving as much time as was necessary to Legion affairs.

Cigar Facts

Then and Now

Back in '63, in a small wooden house with only a few cigar-makers, we worked night and day to supply J. A. Cigars to "our boys in blue." During '17 and '18 it happened again; we were called upon to supply the gigantic demand made by our soldiers and sailors. This time found us installed in a modern fireproof plant with scores of skilled cigar-makers who were making more cigars in one day than we were able to make in one month in '63.

Marconi's Floating Laboratory Wonder Ship of Radio

PAUL F. GODLEY STANDING BEFORE THE LOOP AERIAL IN MARCONI'S FLOATING RADIO LABORATORY.

BY PAUL F. GODLEY
America's Foremost Radio Authority

After several busy weeks studying America's radio problems, Senator Guglielmo Marconi, father of radio, soon will be hearing home aboard his floating radio laboratory, the yacht "Elettra."

It is a veritable wonder ship. In one of the largest cabins on the main deck there is mounted on table, wall and special pump, almost every conceivable kind of modern radio equipment. There are radio transmitters, radio receivers, high speed recorders, selective devices for the reduction of atmospheric interference, radio direction finders, amplifiers, special transmitters for broadcasting and highly sensitive measuring instruments which are essential for the analysis of modern radio problems. These things and many more catch the eye as one stands in the room and glances around and well-nigh bewildered.

Projecting into the skylight stands a beautifully built loop or "frame" antenna. This serves as collector for the long wave signals which are recorded automatically on a special ticker device at speeds approaching 200 words a minute.

Underneath the tables are dynamos of various patterns, weight transformers, storage cells and all the appurtenances in the "prima mover" class. Here it is that the great inventor and his assistants pass many interesting and enlightening hours. Here it is that Marconi, the originator of it all, surveys the development of the art.

During Marconi's eighty-fifth visit to the United States, he saw more and heard more of the development of radio than ever before in his life.

America's contributions—particularly the more recent ones—and the remarkable popularization of radio surprised him.

It was the finest tribute to his art that could be paid.

"Doc" Is Called By Radio

Patients in Government Springs hospital at Paul, Okla., needn't yell for "Doc" very long if Dr. T. B. Hinson is handling the case. Dr. Hinson may be out in the country when his services are needed quickly at the hospital. A nurse broadcasts by radio and the instrument in Hinson's car picks up the call. Dr. Hinson is shown standing alongside his radio-equipped car.

TWO GREAT STRIKES

This country is face to face at the present time with two very serious strikes; first, the coal strike, in which all the union miners have been idle for some months; and, second, the strike of the railroad shop workers, which is liable to spread at any time to alarming proportions.

President Harding has given out a plan for the arbitration of the coal strike and it is expected that it will be accepted, for the reason that neither side can safely resist an offer made by the president in the interest of the country at large and for the benefit of all the people. It will be remembered that the mine operators had signed a compact with the miners to hold a conference for the adoption of a new scale of wages before the expiration of the agreement made during the war. Under the pretext that such a conference would leave them liable for prosecution under the anti-trust law, they refused to enter into any such conference with the miners and the strike resulted. Already they stand in a bad light before the country. The president's offer is for arbitration by a board consisting of three representatives of the miners, three of the operators, and five appointed by the president. The miners under the proposed plan are to return to work under the old scale of wages and if the arbitration board does not report a new arrangement acceptable to both sides by August 10, then the old scale of wages will continue, the miners to remain at work until March 1, 1923. It is understood that the operators do not like the arrangement, but their likes or dislikes should now be a matter of indifference to the government. The interests of the people are involved and the general public has already suffered too much imposition from the selfish policies of the mine operators.

In regard to the railroad strike, President Harding has announced that the federal government will maintain the service and the transmission of mail throughout the country. That will be a huge undertaking in case the strike should spread; but the government cannot stand idly by and see the interests of the country and the people imperiled by the paralysis of the chief system of transportation.

In reference to the merits of the case, it is admitted that the Railroad Labor board made a serious blunder in its last decision fixing the wages of the shop workers. It is generally conceded that this decision was based upon the reported financial exigencies of the roads. The decision is defended by a comparison with a rate of wages prevailing in 1917, which was not a normal year. In that year the rate of wages had not risen to a level that would meet the increased cost of living. For this reason and because the scale of wages would not afford comfortable living conditions under the present cost of living, it is criticized as unfair and hence the shop workers are said to have a just grievance. It is quite likely that the government will soon take a hand in the railroad strike also with a view to reaching a settlement and preventing any further spread of the railroad trouble. This will be a much more difficult task than the settlement of the miners' strike because of the greater number of crafts employed and the various complexities entering into the cost of labor and materials.

The government, however, has the resources to handle the situation and it should not lose any further time in grappling with it so that the whole trouble may be settled before it assumes a more serious aspect.

FACTORY SAVING SYSTEM

From Worcester a movement is spreading to the factories of the state which has for its object the adoption of a systematic plan of saving by which a stated sum fixed by each employee accepting the plan would be deposited to his or her credit and in a bank selected by the depositor. The scheme encourages thrift and makes easy the saving of money by small installments.

It is alleged in support of the movement that the employees where the system is in force are actually surprised by the rapid growth of their savings even when the amount deposited weekly is so small that they do not miss it. A great many people have a habit of carrying their loose change in their pockets and spending it as occasion requires without keeping any account of their expenditure. But under the Worcester plan, every member keeps a close watch upon his expenditures in order to see how much he can save in a week without pinching too much. Thus his bank account grows much more rapidly than he expects, and with interest accumulating from year to year it forms a valuable nucleus for protection against sickness or death. In case of the younger members, many of them even in a short time can lay up a sufficient sum to purchase a house lot or to make the first payment on a house. Thus it will prove a great help to the operatives in acquiring homes of their own and getting rid of paying rent.

This movement is conducted by the Association for the Promotion and Protection of Savings, which sends its organizers to explain the scheme to the employees of any factory wishing to adopt it. The company keeps the accounts and makes the deposits, each depositor holding his bank book and, of course, as already stated, receiving his bank. The cost of the service is very small as compared with its value and the work it entails. The plan encourages regular and systematic saving, and results in a better feeling between employer and employee for the reason that the thrifty employee who is able to save even a little is usually contented and satisfied. This system does not in any degree deprive the employee of his freedom to change his employment, if he sees fit, or to drop out at any time he may so decide, withdrawing his money on deposit if he so desires. The agents of the association naturally astonish some of the workers in various factories by showing how much a man can save if he tries, even while earning small wages. Thus the spirit of thrift is diffused and when the benefits of this system are realized they are eagerly sought by the wage earners as an aid in building up their scanty resources so as to be available for use in emergency or even for investment as a future needs may dictate.

GERMANY WANTS TIME

That the German mark has actually collapsed as a medium of exchange of any recognizable value, is the dread reality of the hour in Europe. In the face of what seems certain financial disaster, Germany pleads for a moratorium, but still France holds to the belief that all these pleadings for more time by Germany is but a pretence intended to secure concessions. The other allied powers do not agree with France on this point and they further assert that should Germany become bankrupt, that fact alone would ruin all Europe. The situation is, therefore, regarded as serious except by France, which seems incapable of conceiving of any honest move on the part of Germany. The London financiers are endeavoring to lead off the approaching crash and are considering the German demand for a moratorium on the repayment account covering payments for the remainder of this year and the whole of next year.

To that France will not agree, so that a split is quite probable among the allies on this point. Meantime there is a movement on foot in Germany in favor of monarchy, which may try to solve the problems of government in case the present cabinet falls. Thus the outlook for Germany is not encouraging and her fate will involve the whole of Europe.

TO ARBITRATE DISPUTE

Much satisfaction is being expressed at Washington over what seems to be the prospective solution of the old trouble between Chile and Peru, which is of forty years' standing. It is known as the Tacna-Arica question. These two states had been at war and it was decided in 1891 that the ownership of two disputed provinces should be decided by a plebiscite in 1921. The plebiscite for various reasons was not held. The years passed and Chile was accused of depriving the citizens of Peru and putting Chileans in their place so that the plebiscite might result in her favor. This contention prevented the plebiscite being held and now the two republics have agreed that the whole question shall be arbitrated by a Secretary of the United States.

The settlement of this question will be a great step for the promotion of international peace in South America. An examiner was putting a young medical student through his paces. "Supposing," he began, "there was a gunpowder explosion and a man was blown into the air, you, as the nearest doctor, being called in, what would you do?" "Wait for him to come down," was the reply. "The examiner," he roared angrily and then barked, "If I raised my foot and gave you a kick, what muscles would be brought into play?" With a steady light in his eyes the young man retorted: "The flexilis and extensive muscles of my right arm."

IMPORTANT LEGAL POINT

If it should turn out that under the law for the enforcement of the 18th amendment, as now alleged, the officers have no legal authority to do so, then the violation of the law, the question will arise as to what course will be followed by the defendants whose home distilleries were rudely smashed without warrant of law. The point raised by ex-assistant United States district attorney is regarded as the most important brought before the United States Commissioner before since the enforcement began. The rule was that officers smashed the stills at night, but now the point goes to the United States courts for decision. This result will be watched with interest.

MORAL TENDENCY NOTED

Box fiction, of the kind that skates on thin ice, is steadily losing its popularity. Magazines that "play up" sex and their circulation slipping away, and with lightning speed, of course, but fast enough to show a decided national tendency.

The same tendency is noted in the movie theatres, some of which have been disposed to exploit suggestive productions. That is a good sign. It indicates that the people are thinking clearer thoughts and that the prevailing conditions have turned their minds to the spiritual things of life. If the publishers, the theatre managers and all others concerned, will regard their influence against the salacious, then the movement here noted will be given permanence.

Painting or polishing apples, painting watermelons, sausages and other articles of food for the purpose of making them more attractive, is on a par with putting a layer of fresh straw over on top of a box that has been to decay. All this is but a species of deception and is on a par with the dilution or adulteration of milk and should be so treated in the courts.

The fact that the court denied an injunction against payment for three motor vehicles purchased by the mayor does not prove that the purchases were legal but merely that the case was not conducted in compliance with the statutes. If the defendant had directed the proceedings to secure the decision given, he could not have done it more successfully.

The present trouble with the German mark appears to be that the mark is not worth the paper on which it is printed and its distribution, therefore, must entail a waste of time, energy and money.

The reinstatement of Messrs. Murphy and Leary to the Public Service board will not destroy the value of the political strategy of their removal for campaign purposes, when his Honor again comes before the voters.

A Thought

Patience had no sooner placed herself by the mount of sorrows, but the whole heap sunk to such a degree that it did not appear one-third part as big as it was before.—Joseph Addison.

Some Names

The firm was indulging in the luxury of a new office boy. "And what's your name?" asked the rather slipshod head clerk, William Wilson Atkinson Simpson. "The sibilant reply," "Tut-tut," said the head clerk, "you'll be wanted here. Why don't you go into the country and get a job as a nightingale?"

What Did He Mean?

They were collecting tickets at the last stop before Paddington, when a pretty woman was seen running along the platform looking into every carriage. "Do you want a seat, madam?" asked a ticket collector. "No," she replied. "I've lost my husband." "Ah, well," said a man sitting by the window, "one can't think of everything."

Today's Word

Today's word is esoteric. It's pronounced e-sot-er-ik, with the accent on the third syllable. Both e and i are short; the o is as the o in obey. It means—intended for, and understood only by the initiated. It comes from a Greek word meaning "inner." It's used like this—"Admittance could be gained without knowledge of the esoteric phrase."

An Old Name for It

Lady Astor understands the American reporters probably better than any other recent visitor, but on at least one occasion she displayed gross ignorance. This was when someone approached her with a photograph and asked her to sign it. "No," she replied. "I've lost my husband." "Ah, well," said a man sitting by the window, "one can't think of everything."

Clever Minister

An instance of monetary success in the collection has been noted since the minister published the following soliloquy in the parish magazine. "I am a nickel. I am too small to buy a loaf of bread; I am too small to buy one-half pound of chocolate; I am too small to buy a ticket for a good motion picture; I am also too small to buy a box of undetectable rouge. I am even too small to buy one package of good cigars. Nevertheless, some people seem to think I'm 'some money' when I come to church."

Examiner Challenged

An examiner was putting a young medical student through his paces. "Supposing," he began, "there was a gunpowder explosion and a man was blown into the air, you, as the nearest doctor, being called in, what would you do?" "Wait for him to come down," was the reply. "The examiner," he roared angrily and then barked, "If I raised my foot and gave you a kick, what muscles would be brought into play?" With a steady light in his eyes the young man retorted: "The flexilis and extensive muscles of my right arm."

Haun on the Roof

When the haunted shadows hover Over all the starry spheres, And the melancholy darkness, Gently weeps in silent tears, What joy to press the pillow Of a collapse-chamber bed, And to listen to the patter Of the soft rain overhead.

Every link on the shingles Has an echo in the heart; And a thousand dreamy fancies Into hissing words are sent, And a thousand recollections Wave their air-threads into wood, As I listen to the patter Of the rain upon the roof.

Art bathed tonight of tone or cadence, That can work with such a spell In the airy, watery fountain, Whence the tears of rapture well, As that melody of Nature, That subdued, subdued strain, Which is played upon the shingles By the patter of the rain.

DISABLED VETERANS HOLD MEETING

Important business was transacted at a meeting of the Disabled American Veterans of the First World War in the City Hall last night, with Commander Harry P. Sullivan presiding. Report on deaths conducted by Veterans at the South common meeting was received and accepted, and it was planned to use the funds raised for the improvement of the property of the Nashua road in Tyngsboro, given them by the K. of C. for use as a camp by the organization for its tubercular members.

Two buildings and 33 acres of land are included in the new camp. A building on the river is to be used as a gymnasium and the other, on the road, for sleeping quarters for all who visit the property. It is expected that Major General Edwards will send up a considerable amount of supplies, consisting of tents, cot, and other necessities, from the supply depot in Boston. Donations from the K. of C. of a number of mattresses and a cooking range will be supplemented later by athletic material in abundance.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Tells How He Trains Children to Manage Millions

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR.

INTIMATE INTERVIEW WITH JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR.

Every parent and every child will be interested in the intimate authorized interview with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., multimillionaire and heir to the world's greatest fortune, which The Sun has obtained through N. E. A. Service. Rockefeller tells frankly how he is training his children to master millions, instead of letting millions master them. Whatever heritage you may leave your children, whatever your plans for them may be, you will find food for thought and discussion in Rockefeller's theories and experiences.—Editor.

NEW YORK, July 12.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., regarding bringing up his children as one of his most engrossing and important tasks.

"I regret the passing of the old-fashioned woodpile," he says. "I have failed to find a modern equivalent of the woodpile of my father's household." This began the first interview Mr. Rockefeller has ever given on this human subject. He discussed for N.E.A. Service his ideas on family finance and the problem of children. He did not pretend to be telling what other people should do with their children, but simply agreed, at my request, to discuss some of the principles he felt he was duty-bound to put into effect in training his own children.

"Well," he said, "hurts children when they get too much of it. Just because a man can afford to hire people to wait on his children is no reason why he should do it. I don't."

"They ought to be helped to form the habit of doing things for themselves—things that need to be done—whether they like to do them or not. I think many modern children are not developing the will power and self-mastery that are essential in the solution of life's problems."

"That's what I mean about the woodpile. My father had to chop wood and to the milking. He probably didn't like doing the chores any better than most boys, but he acquired the habit of doing things he didn't like to do; his will was trained, and it helped him cope with other difficulties."

Mr. Rockefeller has six children, five of them boys. In fact, they are being trained to be thrifty. "Everybody knows that one of the things which is wrong with the world is extravagance," he says. "Extravagance hurts character. It is a man's duty to his children to be thrifty. Whether a man can afford lavish spending isn't the point; it is wrong not to spend wisely whatever is spent, whether a man can spare the money or not."

Families and individuals—children, too—should keep account of their money, they receive and spend, says Mr. Rockefeller. He told me his father himself kept account of his personal expenditures until he was past 60. And he himself did so until a few years ago. Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., is 48.

"At seven or eight my children each received an allowance of 80 cents a week," he explained. "The understanding was that out of it they were to save and to give, as well as to spend. Ten cents was to be saved, 10 was for the church and Sunday school—for benevolence and for spending. I explained the importance of keeping accounts. At the end of the week I audited the accounts. A few years later they were getting a dollar a week, and to teach accuracy in keeping accounts towards and demerits were given. If the account book was correct the child got $1.05 the following week, $1.10 the next, and so on. If incorrect only 95 cents, then 90 and 85."

These allowances never exceed a dollar or two dollars a week, as the most, until the age of 18. By then, Mr. Rockefeller considers, a child that has been properly trained ought to be able to handle his own finances. So the allowance is increased to cover all expenses outside of keep, education and medical service. It includes clothes, fares, if traveling alone, entertainment, candy, sodas, and the like. "I believe," Mr. Rockefeller said, "that children should know what to spend, how to spend, what things cost, whether a thing is worth buying—in short, the value of money."

"This, and keeping accounts, is important because of the principle underlying. It is of value to my children—to any child—to hold to the rigid fundamental principle of economy."

Mr. Rockefeller smiled over an experiment he tried. "I was brought up to do things that needed to be done, whether I liked them or not," he said. "At seven years of age I began playing the violin, and I used to get five cents an hour for practicing. But that sort of thing doesn't work these days—or at least the standards are higher! Even with children. Five cents an hour isn't an inducement any more."

"But I do pay wages for errands and chores. If a child honestly works, he earns such pay. It stimulates the desire to work. I used to get 15 cents an hour for sawing wood. But these days it's different. Down in the country we have wood hauled to the house. My boys and I load and unload it, and I pay them for the job. Yes, the scale is higher than 15 cents."

Schools do not teach thrift and habits of work, Mr. Rockefeller finds.

"Education used to mean cramming the mind," he said. "Education really is learning how to use the mind. The tendency with many children of today is to follow the easiest way, the line of least resistance. You see it reflected in studies, in social life, and in business."

"The modern theory of many people seems to be to let a child decide what he wants to do and then let him do it. Of course, we all do best the things we like doing. But life cannot be lived wholly that way. How can a child later learn how to avoid the things he should not do? A disorderly mind is an untrained one."

Mr. Rockefeller hasn't much sympathy with parents who, having acquired means, say they hope their boys will never have to work as hard as they did.

"It is a false idea to change standards like that and go with the tide," he said.

"A boy should do the wholesome things his father had to do insofar as is possible. It will teach him what qualities made his father successful. I am sorry I did not have that sort of chance. I want my boys to start work at the bottom."

CLINICS FOR THE COMING WEEK

The following clinics to be held during the coming week have been arranged by the Lowell Guild's Visiting Nursing Baby Hygiene Association.

Tuesday and Friday, from 2 to 5 o'clock, at 17 Dutton street. Thursday from 10 to 12 o'clock noon, at the Elliot school. Saturday from 10 to 12 o'clock at the Greenhills school and also in the basement of the Greek church in Jefferson street. A doctor will be in attendance at all clinics. The nursing service of the Lowell Guild has been extended to Chelmsford Centre, North Chelmsford, East Chelmsford, South Chelmsford, West Chelmsford, Brookside, Kenwood and Draughton.

All the Metropolitan Industrial policy holders are entitled to this service. The Metropolitan company wants every sick industrial or group certificate policy holder to take advantage of the offer. Those desiring care may telephone or send a card for the Metropolitan nurse at the Lowell Guild.

All women's shoes were made without heels prior to 1824.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

NOT SO VERY

Whenever you hear some one tell
That olden times were paradises,
He's under a romantic spell
And views the past with foggy eyes;
Don't let him pull that stuff, arise
And make this fact clear, as you should,
In spite of those who eulogize,
The Good Old Days were not so good!

Our ancestors were forced to dwell
Without the plumbing that we prize;
They didn't live so long or well
As we, and this you can't disguise—
Their little babies died like flies
From causes no one understood.
And thus the thinking man implies,
The Good Old Days were not so good!

She laced, herself, the ancient belle,
Into a corset half her size;
And in a faint she often fell;
The modern slapper would despise
Such weakness, for today she vies
With man himself in hardihood—
I'd hate to have it otherwise.
The Good Old Days were not so good!

ENVOY

Recall the past? Well, I surmise
We wouldn't do it if we could;
For, stripped of buck and rosy lies,
The Good Old Days were not so good.

$10,000 Lost on Mrs. Mallory

NEW YORK, July 12.—Franklin I. Mallory, stock broker, husband of Mollie Mallory, who was defeated by Suzanne Lenglen at the Wimbledon tennis championships last week, admitted today he knew $10,000 had been offered at even money that his wife would defeat the French girl, but he was noncommittal on the report that he himself had lost that sum. He said he believed half of the money was finally placed.

Gould Marries for Second Time

NEW YORK, July 12.—George J. Gould was married in Paris about a week ago for the second time. Knowledge of the second marriage was made public through cablegrams to members of the Gould family. The bride was Mrs. Alice Sinclair. A sojourn in Scotland until fall, it is understood, will keep Mr. and Mrs. Gould abroad until November. Mrs. Edith Kingdon Gould, first wife of George J. Gould, died less than a year ago.

INVESTIGATE PATENTS

Grand Jury to Make Sweeping Inquiry Into Dye Patent Sales

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Investigation by the special federal war frauds grand jury of the sale of hundreds of German dye patents by the alien property custodian in 1919 to the Chemical Foundation, Inc., is expected to be carried on concurrently with other important cases already taken up by the grand jury, it was said today.

The dye patent sale case, which was opened with the appearance of Francis T. Garvan, custodian, when the sale was completed, and now president of the purchasing company, was declared authoritatively to be the first step in a sweeping inquiry into the entire history of the custodian's office since its inception.

The government's present program contemplates occupation of the grand jury through July and August with the "old hickory" aviation, and Chemical Foundation cases and then to proceed with the other alien property cases until the life of the present grand jury expires in October.

It was emphasized that it was entirely possible acts of the alien property custodian with reference to former enemy-owned property might have gone beyond the law without being necessarily criminal, but rather a mistaken judgment concerning authority and in the stress of war time conditions. Return of the property to the present custodian, it was said, would assure protection for American and German interests.

THINK PARLEY ON DEBT NEAR

British Newspapers Give Prominence to Plan for England's Payment

Daily Mail Says Mission Will Leave for United States
Shortly

LONDON, July 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The question of funding the British war debt to the United States reported to be under consideration by the British government, is given prominence by the newspapers today.

Overtures for the funding of the debt were made by the United States some time ago, according to the Times, these being accompanied by an invitation to a conference in Washington. The Daily Mail asserts that important communications are passing between the two governments, adding that a British mission will leave shortly for the United States to discuss the question, and while there, will also talk over the possibility of an international economic conference in Washington.

The Morning Post says: "Unquestionably this matter plays an important part in the whole problem of international indebtedness, and it is very clear that America is looking to Great Britain to give a strong lead to recognition of these external obligations."

The Post, however, ridicules the report that repayment of the debt to America in a lump sum in the near future is contemplated, adding:

"It is understood that there is a liability of something like £3,000,000 due to Japan, while there is a large line of three-year British notes in America which will mature Nov. 1, amounting to about $50,000,000."

In France the right of women to wear men's clothes is usually conferred by the government only as a tribute of great merit.

FOUR DROWNED IN THREE RIVERS LAKE

THREE RIVERS, Que., July 12.—Three young girls and one of their four boy companions were drowned in Lake St. Paul near Beauceville yesterday, and the three other boys in the party swam to shore after the boat in which the seven were rowing had capsized. All were between 15 and 22 years old.

When the boat started sinking, the three girls jumped out, overturning it. Armand Houle and Elphège LeBlanc, both of Beauceville, and Arthur LeBlanc of St. Leonard, with the aid of the overturned boat, reached the shore.

Those drowned were Albe LeBlanc of Beauceville, Yvonne LeBlanc of St. Grogro, Euphémie LeBlanc of St. Grogro and Alce LeBlanc of St. Leonard.

Considerable excitement was caused on Lakeview avenue last night about 8.30 when the trolley broke and looped down over a Lakeview bound car.

Officer Audet and Aldrich, who were on the car, immediately placed a cordon of men around the danger zone to keep the children from the live wire. The wire, caused great flashes as it touched the rail in various places and excitement ran quite high.

Owing to the excitement a woman, whose name could not be learned, suffered a slight nervous shock but recovered after a short rest in the air. Traffic was held up on the out-bound line from the city for more than an hour while repairs were being made.

KEENE, N. H., MAN FACES FRAUD CHARGE

KEENE, N. H., July 12.—Bernard Morgan, president of the Morgan Mfg. Co., of Keene, was arrested yesterday on a fugitive warrant charging him with defrauding Frank G. Carey of Fitchburg, Mass., of $15,000. The warrant was issued in Providence, R. I. Morgan waived extradition and was released on $300 bail for appearance in Providence district court tomorrow morning.

Carey came here with the officers and claimed to identify Morgan as George Steinhart, who, he says, sold him 12,000 shares of mining stock in Providence. The stock, according to the complainant, was worthless.

YOUNG GIRL DIES FROM FIRE BURNS

BOSTON, July 12.—Mary Hingham, 7 years old, of 38 Belmont st., Charlestown, died last night at the Haymarket Relief station from burns which she received yesterday afternoon when her dress caught fire from a lantern in the street in front of her home.

The little girl was on her way to the store when she passed too near a blaze kindled by some of her boy and girl playmates. Her clothes flared up and when neighbors, attracted by her screams, reached her and extinguished the fire, she was already terribly burned. She was rushed to the hospital by the police, but she could not be saved.

COURT LENIENT TO ROBBER OF BLIND

NEW YORK, July 12.—William H. Copeland, 76, convicted recently of robbing his blind friend, Miss Maria Wall, also 76, in order to get funds to finance his wedding, was given another respite by County Judge McMahon yesterday to enable him to raise funds to pay back the $3000 theft.

Copeland was given an opportunity to make good the loss of the money, convicted, with the promise that his sentence would be suspended if he did so. He reported he had been unable to get the money, but still had hopes of raising it.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND
One of the truly high grade photoplays of the year will be shown for the last time today at The Strand. It's the new Selznick special called "Reported Missing" starring Owen Moore. You must see it if you are to appreciate it to the fullest. More good laughs, thrills and entertaining romance is contained in it than in any other picture shown here heretofore.

"Just Outside the Door," with Edith Hallor, the perfect woman of the screen, starring is the other big feature.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing the remainder of the week, "Garold Hughes in 'Little Eva Ascends' and William Russell in 'Desert Blossoms' will be featured. The former is a great comedy drama in which the star is shown in the role of a young man, son of a barn-storming actress, who presides him into service as Little Eva in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.' The situation when he refuses to pose as the little girl are really amusing.

The Russell picture is one of those characteristic western stories that has action and vim all the way through.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Final performances will be given tonight at the Merrimack Square theatre, of "North of the Rio Grande," starring Jack Holt and Bob Daniels, together with the final showing of "The Greatest Truth," a great dramatic production with a specially selected cast.

Features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be Elaine Hammerstein in "Evidence," a gripping story of the stage and society, and "Too Much Wife," one of Wanda Hawley's best comedies. The International News and Bud Hamilton in "The Rainmaker" will complete the bill.

POISONED DOG KILLED
A dog, evidently suffering from poison caused quite a sensation on Lakeview avenue early last evening. As the homeless canine wandered about the street in a state of semi-exhaustion, cries of "mad dog" and "rabid" attracted a large crowd to the scene.

Agent Charles H. Richardson of the Humane society was called and upon examination it was found necessary to shoot the animal.

NAVAL OFFICIALS MUST DECIDE CASE

BOSTON, July 12.—Naval officials at Washington will be called upon to decide whether Private John D. Lawhorn, of the Marine Corps, said by a friend to have confessed to the murder of Ralph W. Brewster, the Winchester station agent, will be allowed to testify before a special session of the Middlesex county grand jury next Tuesday. Col. A. P. Marx, commander of Marines at the Charlestown navy yard, said today.

District Attorney Saltonstall of Middlesex county yesterday sent a communication to Col. Marx, informing him of the special sitting of the grand jury and offering to allow Lawhorn to testify. Col. Marx said today that he had not yet received the communication, but that the authorities at Washington would have to pass on the question.

Navy yard records show that Lawhorn was on guard duty at the yard at the time of the murder in Manchester. He has denied all knowledge of the crime.

Lawhorn's name was brought into the case by an acquaintance, now in jail, who told the police the marine had confessed to murdering Brewster last April.

RECOVERS BOTTLE; GETS QUARTER REWARD

BOSTON, July 12.—At last accounts, Leslie Nickerson of Roxbury, one of the crew of the Boston fishing schooner Dawn, who fished a bottle out of the water Monday morning 15 miles southeast of Hingham Light, which proved to be one of several set afloat by the bureau of fisheries at Washington, was undecided as to how to expend the reward of 25 cents to which he is entitled for returning the enclosed card. The Dawn arrived at the Fish pier yesterday from the South channel grounds and Nickerson lost no time in spreading the news of his good fortune among his friends.

The card within the bottle contained a request that the finder fill in the location where found, the date and time, so that the department may determine the "set" of the ocean currents in the vicinity of Cape Cod. It has been suggested that Nickerson split the reward equally between the members of the Dawn's crew, which numbers only 20, but he has not yet made up his mind.

Law Student--Fighter

BOB SAGE

By BILLY EVANS
Fighting and law do not seem to have much in common, yet Bob Sage of Detroit, Mich., is combining them to excellent advantage.

Bob Sage is a law student at the University of Detroit. He is a mighty good student. In two years he hopes to have his degree.

When not pouring over Blackstone, Bob Sage devotes his time to the ring. He aspires some day to be the middleweight champion of the world.

In Detroit, and around the state of Michigan, Bob Sage is perhaps better known as "Bob" Sage, a middleweight contender, the boy with the powerful punch.

Sage first attended University of Washington at Seattle. He then moved to Detroit and continued his studies at the University of Detroit.

Not being wealthy, Sage found it necessary to work his way through college. He always liked boxing. Any spare time he has is spent in the gymnasium.

Promoters fear of him.

Then stories of Sage's boxing prowess reached the promoters. He was offered a chance to show in a preliminary.

At the time Sage had no thought of taking up boxing as a career. The money offered, however, was more than he could make in a month doing odd jobs.

Sage won his first professional bout with a knockout and made a big hit. That convinced him that boxing would pay his way through college.

In 11 months of professional fighting he has taken part in 12 bouts, nine of which he has won over the knockout route. His most impressive triumph was a knockout of Pat Walsh, the well-known Cincinnati middleweight.

The classicist opponent he has so far met is Jackie Clark, A.E.F. champion. All the Detroit papers gave him the decision over Clark.

Welcome J. Wilson

Sage is a modest, clean-cut chap of 22 years, who takes the best of care of himself. He radiates confidence and is convinced that he can hold his own with the best of them. He would welcome right now a match with Champion Johnny Wilson.

Sage has been tentatively matched to meet Mike Gibbons in a 15-round bout on Labor Day. If Sage is able to win over Gibbons his reputation will have been made.

FRANKIE REAGAN PITCHES DEAR OLD BROADWAY INTO LIMELIGHT

Two Singles Was the Best the Centralville Wrecking Crew Could Do--Big Crowd Enjoys Pitching Exhibition---Snappy Twilight League Game on South Common

GAME TONIGHT

Highland Daylights vs. C. of C.

Frankie Reagan, 1922 phenom of the twilight league, let the Centralville wrecking crew down with two singles on the South Common last night, and as a result brought victory home to the lovely Broadway by a snappy game, the final score standing 6 to 0. It was one of the best pitching feats ever performed on the old diamond, and the immense throng was quick to recognize and applaud.

Sammy Poult, the Centralville war horse, was the party of the second part, but the Broadway, as of old, seemed to have his number. They registered seven hits on his usually impenetrable delivery, with all but the last single accounting for a run.

The Centralville accused their hits to the third and seventh. Pare singled to right in the third and Bradbury sent a flizzer in the same direction in the final stanza, with two out and all hope vanished.

The Broadway started with a rush. Keyes opened with a double to left center and after Gath had grounded out to Tyler at first, scored on Gath's drive to center. Fredy taking second on the throw to the plate. Here came the fielding feat of the game. Spaine sent a line drive sailing toward second, which McSorley grabbed and stepped on the bag, making an unassisted double play.

The Broadway scored four runs on four hits in the fourth. Gath opened with a single to right and Gleason followed suit, by way of variation. Spaine hit to Bradbury, who failed to find an opportunity for a putout in any direction. Then Lawrence, the new first baseman for the Broadway, drove the pellet to far center for a homer and a total of four counts.

Except for McSorley's double play, the game was lacking in interest as a fielding proposition. In the first inning, Keyes robbed Garrity of a hit by grabbing a hot liner he never should have touched. In the sixth, as Tyler swung hard at one of Reagan's fast ones, the ball struck his foot in foul territory--the batter's face--and carried to first base, and Umpire Grady called the ex-hibit timer out. All considered, the triumph of the weak over the strong, combined with Reagan's pitching exhibition, was the real feature of the evening. The score:

Jess's Getting Serious

JESS WILLARD IN TWO TRAINING POSES

Every once in a while we hear a chirp about how Jess Willard is slipping up and down the coast, renting various cottages and such for training secretly. Then we get a reverse chirp on how he isn't.

Let's settle it.

Here are the first photos of Big Jess in actual training. He's working out at the American Legion arena, Hollywood, Cal.

Jess weighs 255 pounds and hopes to take off 20 pounds in four months, when he will be ready to take on all heavyweights, Jack Dempsey preferred.

RACE TIGHTENS IN AMERICAN

Yankees Only Half Game Behind League Leading St. Louis Browns

Tillie Walker Wrests Home Run Honors From Ken Williams

NEW YORK, July 12.--The Yankees were separated from the league-leading St. Louis club by only half a game today as a result of their 2-1 victory over the Browns in the first game of the series at the Polo grounds. It was a thrilling duel between Joe Bush and Urban Shocker with the St. Louis flinger having the edge. Two flukes, a home run by Ward which bounced off Willard's glove by a wild throw, however, gave the Yankees their winning margin.

Tillie Walker of the Athletics is the new American league home run leader, displacing Ken Williams of the Browns as a result of cracking out a circuit blow in each game of a double victory the A's men scored over Detroit, 4-2 and 9-8.

Walker now has 21 homers and Williams 20. Incidentally Eddie Rommel received credit for winning both games, the second time he has chalked up a double win in a day this season.

Haines held the Phils to two hits, one a single and St. Louis won its eighth straight, 3 to 0, but the fast-going Cardinals were unable to gain on the Giants who stopped the Chicago Cubs winning streak, 4 to 0, with the aid of Jesse Barnes' amazing twirling. Cincinnati ousted Brooklyn from fourth place in the National league, beating the Dodgers' ace, Dutch Ruether, 5-1, while the Boston Braves checked their losing streak by trimming Pittsburgh 10 to 4.

McGraw's pinch hit in the seventh drove in two runs and secured a victory for the Yankees, 3-2, while Guy Mott of Cleveland shut out the Red Sox, 2 to 0, with four hits.

TO MAKE TEST CASE OF BETTING

CHICAGO, July 12.--Revel of running races in Chicago, including the formerly famous American, hinges on the legal outcome of a race at historic Hawthorn today.

Today's race would have all the features of the old time Hawthorn, including the bookmakers. Just before the race a bet will be made by a spectator and the amount recorded by the bookmaker, although no money will change hands.

The plan is to have the bookmaker arrested just after he records the bet. The event is sponsored by the Illinois Jockey club, a new organization composed of racing enthusiasts and manufacturers and a law firm has been engaged to handle the bookmaker's case when it is called in court.

Racing was stopped in Chicago, because of the new club said, because bets were accepted by bookmakers for races conducted on other tracks. They contend they will allow no foreign books and the decision will not apply.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, declared he would enforce the law.

C. M. A. C.'S DEFEAT LAWRENCE TEAM

Billy Marcotte's C.M.A.C. team journeyed to Lawrence last evening and defeated a picked semi-pro team of that city by the score of 4 to 2. It was a close game all the way with the locals having the advantage in hitting and in fielding. On the Texas side came out a handoutter, who he forgets how many men are out. Gessler was playing with the Chicago Cubs when he pulled his clinic in Iowa.

It was the first of the ninth, the bases were filled, and out and the score was 2-2.

Gessler evidently thought two men were out, for when he made a remarkable catch of a hard-hit fly ball he believed the side had been retired and started for the clubhouse at top speed.

Before his teammates could make him realize that only two were out, all three runners had scored on Gessler's mental lapse.

BIG TIME RESUMES SCHEDULE TODAY

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 12.--Racing in the grand circuit is scheduled to be resumed at 1 o'clock this afternoon after a day's postponement due to a muddy track. As the result of the delay the program will be moved back one day which means that it will be necessary to occupy the entire week.

In addition to the regular card of four races today the 2:15 and 2:55 race of Monday which were stopped by rain after one heat had been run off, are on the program.

Today's regular program consists of the 2:07 race, the Tumescum 2:12 trot, the Sherwood stakes for three-year-olds trotters and the 2:18 pace.

The greyhound is one of the oldest types of dogs.

Jack Dempsey Will "Warm Up" For Wills

The melee will be held in Pittsburg, Harry's home town, about July 22, and will be 10 rounds, no decision.

Big Jess, weighing 255 pounds, has gone into heavy training on the Pacific coast with the hope of juring Jack into a return match.

Meanwhile Harry Wills is "jess" waiting.

NEW YORK, July 11.--Jack Dempsey is not going to risk his title against the "Black Panther" without a little exercise.

Jack has been idle since his match with Carpenter a year ago and feels that he needs a fight or two under his belt before he takes on any such dangerous proposition as Harry Wills promises to be.

Billy Miske is reported to be the first victim.

The bout probably will be held in Philadelphia, July 12--an eight-round affair.

Mayhe Greb

Greb and Jack have mixed it before. In 1918, in two no-decision bouts of 10 and six rounds, respectively.

And then Dempsey came along in 1920 and kicked him for a row of water buckets in three rounds for $55,000.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH CLEVELAND?

Baseball fans all over the country are losing sleep over Cleveland. And when they do sleep they ask, "What's the matter?"

For the first time since Tris Speaker became manager of the Indians they are dangling around the second division.

In the 13 years that Speaker has been associated with major league baseball he has never finished with a game percentage as low as 500.

The big criticism is pitchers. Another cause is rookie pitchers. More than half the defeats up to June 1 were credited to recruits.

BOXING BOUTS FRIDAY

DESERTED ON EVE OF HIS WEDDING

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 12.--All set for his marriage and a delightful honeymoon trip to Europe, Frank J. Herbst, hotel owner, received a staggering shock. It was learned yesterday in the form of a little note from his fiancée, Sophie Carroll, formerly of Brooklyn, which read:

"I cannot marry you today dear."

Herbst and Mrs. Carroll, widow of a millionaire Utica bicycle manufacturer, were to have been married last Saturday. They were to sail for Germany on their honeymoon, and Herbst had sold his hotel to free his mind of business cares. All preparations were completed and then the surprising note came.

No explanation is given of the wealthy widow's change of heart. Herbst left Sunday night for the north, his destination unknown here.

BILL IS HELD UP

A bill for $25 for automobile supplies presented by Joseph A. Cloutier, mayor's secretary, has been held up for investigation by the budget and audit commission. The bill was incurred during the month of June, while the secretary was making almost daily visits to the Chelmsford street hospital to check up supplies.

HAS TAKEN FANCY TO AIR JOURNEYS

NEW YORK, July 12.--An airplane flight from Newport, R. I., to New York by Mrs. J. Normander Whitehouse yesterday, at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour, revealed today that wealthy New Yorkers have taken a fancy to flying. Mrs. Whitehouse, accompanied by her husband and Bertram De N. Cramer, made the flight in Vincent Astor's hydromonoplane. It took one hour and 20 minutes to cover the 125 miles from Newport harbor to Port Washington, on Long Island. Vincent Astor and Harland S. Vanderbilt and other society amateurs harbor their craft there.

Vanderbilt frequently flies to Southampton to play golf. He flew to the New York to witness the final Yale-Harvard baseball game.

MORE GOLF PLAYED

BOSTON, July 12.--The first and second round of match play in the Massachusetts junior golf championship were in order today at the Commonwealth Country club course. The third round and semi-finals will feature tomorrow with finals scheduled for Friday. P. Sullivan, Halerty, and W. P. McGrath, Brookline, started play this morning followed by Clark Hodder, Commonwealth and J. L. McKean, Jr., Albemarle.

Standing Back Dive

AILEEN RIGGIN IN A STANDING BACK DIVE. THE SMALL BOARD SHOWS HOW, AFTER SPRINGING OUT FROM THE BOARD, THE DIVE IS MADE STRAIGHT DOWNWARD.

By AILEEN RIGGIN
(Olympic Fencer Champion)

To do the standing back dive, one must acquire something of the ability of an acrobat.

It is good practice to try standing on the hands before trying to execute the dive. Practice soon will make perfect.

After you have become proficient in toes pointed, this, you are ready to go ahead.

Stand at attention on the free end of the board for an instant, then bend forward from the hips and grip the end of the board with both hands. Then swing into an upright position, hold it for an instant, and then spring out, bringing the hands smartly together.

Enter the water in a straight up and down position, with the fingers and toes pointed.

Tomorrow--The back dive.

U.S. SENATE FIGHT IS WAXING WARM

Humphrey O'Sullivan Will
Be Strong for Col. Gas-
ton's Nomination

Joe Walker Offers Encouragement for Democrats—
Other Candidates

Humphrey O'Sullivan will take an active interest in the candidacy of Col. William A. Gaston for the nomination for United States senator. When Mr. Gaston was a candidate for the nomination for governor, Mr. O'Sullivan was one of his staunch supporters. The present campaign will be conducted with more regard for a clear explanation of the issues involved and where in Massachusetts and New England suffer through the action of Senator Gaston in promoting the fortunes of the republican party in the nation rather than the industrial well being of his own state and the port of Boston. Col. Gaston will visit Lowell in a week or two.

Councilman Stearns a Candidate
Mr. Frank K. Stearns, councilman from ward 1, has announced his candidacy for the office of register of deeds, in the northern Middlesex district, now held by William C. Purcell. Mr. Stearns ran for the same office six years ago and has made up his mind to try it once more. He will take out his nomination papers in a few days. He served on the school committee, in the legislature and was chairman of the old police board. It is understood that Mr. Purcell will be a candidate for reelection.

For Representative
Richard J. Lyons is making an active canvass as a candidate for representative in the 16th district, including wards 4 and 5. He has declared himself as the friend of labor, a self worker himself, and believes that there should be some means of compelling the mill owners to enter into conference with their employees on the question of fixing or changing wage scales.

Joe Walker's Statement
Hon. Joseph Walker, candidate for United States senator, sends out a statement in which he offers encouragement to democrats:

From the women, including the business and professional women, I am getting a wonderful support. All are willing to help me in my fight. Many business men, who are utterly disgusted with the old log-rolling, political method of making tariff schedules, now on exhibition in the senate, and who believe that the only way to get the tariff making process out of the hands of the log-rollers, have offered me their support. They believe that the delay and utter lack of leadership in the senate is checking business, causing unemployment and holding back property.

The cost of government and the extravagant program of legislation now before the senate is a serious source of worry to many taxpayers and to those who fear an increase in the cost of living. Many of these men have come to me and offered their support.

I am getting strong, active and organized support from the workingmen and farmers, who say to me that they will no longer stand for reactionary leadership.

Finally, I am told by strong partisan republicans, including a recent chairman of the republican state committee, that they do not believe that it is possible to elect an old guard republican in Massachusetts. They point to the fact that Mr. Weeks was defeated by Mr. Walsh, that Mr. Lodge was nearly defeated by Mr. Fitzgerald six years ago, even though Mr. Fitzgerald threw up his hands in the midst of the fight. These republicans frankly say that only a progressive, forward looking republican can hold the independent vote, so necessary to assure election. As a reactionary republican cannot be elected, the real choice lies between another democratic senator and a forward looking republican senator.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT AT SHEDD PARK

An open doubles tennis tournament is planned by the park department for the Shedd Park courts for the week end following Labor Day. There will be preliminary sets for the novices and a tournament will then be held for the winners. The park department wants the sanction of the A.A.U. for this doubles tournament and they are now waiting for an entry committee who will regulate the playing off of the contestants. The men in charge want it clearly understood that this is not a children's event but a tournament for the grownups.

COBURN EMPLOYEES ENJOY OUTING

Thirty-four employees of the C. B. Coburn Co. left Lowell this morning for Bismarck, N. H., where the annual picnic is being held. Transportation was furnished by the company and luncheon was served in the beautiful grove at the grounds. Baseball and other games were played and the return will be made late in the evening.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Man Charged With Using
Dangerous Weapon Fined
$50—Other Cases

Charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, George Rotsekas of Noble's court, off Broadway was arraigned in district court this morning and his case occupied the greater part of the court session. The alleged offense occurred on July 4 at about 7 a. m. when one Francis Trainor was stabbed and taken to the hospital, from which he emerged this morning to appear for the prosecution. After hearing the evidence, Judge Crosey said that the defendant did not believe him the aggressor, was fined $50, and appealed to superior court. The fine, according to the judge, was to serve as a warning against the use of edged weapons, knives particularly.

Francis Trainor, with a number of small plaques about his head and face, was the first witness for the prosecution. He said that he lives on Smith street, and has no occupation at present. He was standing near the corner of Willie street and Broadway, in front of Noble's court, the use of which he did not know. He alleged that he saw a young fellow, whom he did not know by name, but who proved on being pointed out to be William McCready came running from the court and said he was stabbed. He went back in the court room, "the Greek," as he said he could not remember seeing any woman in the court. He claimed Rotsekas attacked him and stabbed him, after which he was taken from the alley and to the hospital. He showed his cuts to the judge. He said that McCready was stabbed on the cut over one of his eyes. McCready said that he and another, who was absent from the court room, had met the man and that he had said something which they understood to indicate moonshine. He was coming way home from the South country, they followed the man and he put their hands on him and he was carrying on the steps of his home in Noble's court and ran back and struck him. The absentee's name was Kevin and they had followed him to the house and entered because they thought he was going to sell them some "shine." He was struck and the other fellow ran to his assistance. He thought he was struck with a knife but couldn't say so definitely. He saw Trainor stabbed, however, and was telephoned by the police, according to his statement.

John McCaffrey, who gave his residence as 14 Dunfey street, in the street village, said he saw McCready coming out of the court building, and saying the defendant was killing a man in the yard. He went in and attempted to rescue the man, but he was using the knife. He helped the man to the alley afterward. He did not see a police officer until some time later. He said he did not know which party was in the right, and denied entering the house proper, doing only as far as the hallway.

The Defendant's Story
The defendant, who appeared far more mutilated than Trainor, with a great bandage about his head, and a plaster on his face, said that he lived there in the yard, and as July 4, he had his day to act as cook he got up at about a quarter before seven o'clock and went out to make some purchases. On his return, carrying his bundles and an umbrella to protect him from the rain, he met two fellows as he entered the court, he said, and one of them said he was looking for an umbrella. He refused, according to his testimony, whereupon one of the fellows tried to take it away from him, unsuccessfully. He said he then went into the house to wash up preparatory to cooking the breakfast, when six or eight men entered the house and attacked him. One man struck him with his fist, another with a brick, and he was then hit with the knife with which he was cutting beans. He also accused them of breaking the glass in the door.

John Casserly, William Shugrue and James Maguire, the latter a resident of Chambers street, have corroborative evidence, each making details of the attack. Casserly was the last witness for the prosecution, and said that he got there about 7 o'clock and saw one man going to the hospital and others with various cuts. He went into the house and found a knife with blood on it, two cups, a brick, a half brick and a stone in the premises. Rotsekas was sitting there, looking at cuts on his head. He claimed that the participants were sober, and saw no trace of drink on any of them. Several officers, 7 or 8, probably, came along in a patrol. A quart bottle of moonshine was found on a table in the room, with probably a glassful out of it.

He said he called the police and 15

DEATHS

McGUTH—Mrs. Mary E. (Draper) McGuth, wife of James T. McGuth, a well known foreman in the street department, and a devout attendant of St. Patrick's church, died yesterday morning at her home, 565 Broadway, at the age of 72. Deceased was born in this city, the daughter of the late Thomas and Margaret (Walsh) Draper, and besides her husband, she leaves two brothers, ex-Senator Henry J. Draper and William D. Draper, two nephews and five nieces.

COBURN—James M. Coburn, formerly of this city, and related to many people in this neighborhood, died July 8 at Kansas City, Mo. He was born in Dracut, Jan. 25, 1850, being the youngest son of George W. and Mary (Hannford) Coburn. After attending school in Dracut and Lowell, he entered the employ of the Railroad bank, whence he went to Lawrence as cashier of the Pemberton bank. About 1880, Mr. Coburn left Lawrence for Kansas City, where he engaged in real estate and ranching interests. For some years he managed properties in Texas and New Mexico. In the past decade his principal interest had been in apple growing in Arkansas. Mr. Coburn is survived by his wife and four children, of whom Mrs. Ira Colby of Claremont, N. H., is the only one resident in New England; by a brother, Frank Coburn, of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Grace M. Whittemore of Andover.

HENNESSEY—John H. Hennessey, a well known resident of this city, died yesterday at his home, 82 Elm street. He is survived by a son, Andrew J.; three sisters, Mrs. C. S. Grinnell, Mrs. John Tobin and Mrs. George W. Marsh.

DAY—Mrs. Emma Day, wife of Birge C. Day, a resident of Pelham, N. H., died yesterday at her home in Pelham at the age of 60 years and 10 months.

WHITNEY—Miss Ida J. Whitney, a daughter of Lowell, died at Dracut, this morning at her home, 1721 Bridge street, Dracut, aged 55 years. She leaves three brothers, Samuel J. of Milford, Charles F. and Harry W. of Dracut, two nieces and a nephew. She was a member of St. Anne's church. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker W. Herbert Blake.

DOOLEY—Mrs. Mary A. Dooley, a well known resident of this city, died yesterday at her home, 518 Lakeview street, Mrs. McNamara, 518 Lakeview street. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Richard Dooley and Jeremiah Dooley, both of whom are in the United States army. She is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. McNamara, and several grandchildren, all of this city.

RILEY—Mrs. Bridget Riley, aged 66 years, for a number of years a faithful attendant of the Holy Trinity Conception church, died last night at the Chelmsford Street hospital, after a brief illness. She leaves a son, Margaret, this city, and two nieces, and three nephews, of Worcester. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker William A. Mack in Dracut street.

DAY—Mrs. Emma Day, wife of Birge C. Day, died at her late home in Pelham, N. H., yesterday afternoon, aged 60 years, 10 months. Funeral notice later.

or 16 officers came and arrested him. He remained in the station about an hour and a half, when he was bailed out. In the meantime, he asserted, no doctor was called to attend to his wounds. He identified the stained shirt that was found on the ground at the time of the melee. A woman who was present saw no fighting in the yard, but simply saw the men going into the house and coming out. She couldn't hear very well, she said, and was conscious of no noise. She was added to a cross-examination by Deputy Downey, that he had used the knife but in self defence only. He knew nothing of the moonshine, he said, and could not pick out the men who struck him because they all struck him.

After listening to the arguments of the defendant's lawyer and Deputy Downey, who claimed a doctor had been sent for to attend to Rotsekas' wound, but arrived after he had left the station, Judge Fisher said he was prepared to believe that some of the witnesses were the aggressors. He didn't think, however, that the defendant should use a knife, rather than give a warning or call for the police, so he imposed the fine, from which defendant appealed.

Illegal Keeping
Mahamed Ahmed, charged with illegal keeping of liquor and maintaining a liquor nuisance, was continued until July 26. James J. Glynn, for illegal keeping, was also continued until July 26. A hearing on a complaint was held on July 21 and one first offender had his drunkenness charge placed on file.

COURT DENIES PETITION for Injunction Did Not Bear Signatures

Late yesterday afternoon, Judge Crosby of the supreme judicial court, denied the petition of the Lowell Automobile Dealers' association for an injunction to restrain the city from paying for three Packard cars purchased by the mayor and the street department for the reason that the petition did not bear the signatures of 10 local tax-payers, as is required by law.

The signature of only one Lowell tax-payer was affixed to the bill of complaint, although 15 names were typewritten upon its face.

James J. Gilbride, appearing for the petitioners, said that when he filed the bill he was not thoroughly conversant with the statutes governing it and asked if the legal signatures of 10 men must accompany it. When Judge Crosby said that this was the case, Mr. Gilbride said that unless he was accorded authority to amend his petition, he was "out of court."

The judge said he had no authority to amend it and denied the petition.

NOTHING NEW IN MILL STRIKE SITUATION

There is no change in the strike at the Merrimack Mfg. Co. Agent Jude C. Wadleigh refuses to make any statement concerning the situation, while the strike headquarters very little information can be obtained. Some of the strikers held a meeting in Trades and Labor hall in Central street this morning and they reported that conditions were about the same as yesterday. Some of the workers have come out and others have taken their places. They still maintain that the dyelouse, bleach house and finishing departments are badly handicapped, but they are unable to state just how many of the working force is out, although they place the figures in the vicinity of 500.

The men were addressed by John Hanley, chairman of the strike committee and at the close of the meeting the matter of picketing the plant was discussed. When questioned by The Sun, Mr. Hanley stated that the strikers are very confident of winning their fight. "They feel as we all do," he said, "that the strike at the Merrimack will not get a good start for a couple of weeks. A great number of the operatives will not do any thing under the new schedule, and then when they realize that they are not earning enough to keep them they must protest."

Mr. Hanley also stated that the loomfixers, slasher tenders and ring spinner fixers of the mill are 100 per cent. organized, while about 80 per cent of the weavers of the plant are members of the U.T.W. of A. He said he is positive that all the organized workers of the mill are out. At the office of the Merrimack this morning, the Sun was told by Agent Wadleigh, secretary of the mill, that the agent had no statement to make.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, there was a mass meeting of strikers and others interested in the labor movement at Trades and Labor hall, and a gathering was addressed by Organized Horace Rivers of Manchester, N. H., and Organizer Joseph White of Cohasset, N. Y.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, there will be a drawing contest at strike headquarters, when three live ducks and a dead one door mile will be given to the lucky winners. The contest was organized for the benefit of the strike fund.
